Nine Negroes Sneak Into Little Rock School

11 DISTRICT MINERS ARE TRAPPED

Mob Beats Up Photographer Used as Decoy

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP) — Nine Negroes, through a ruse, slipped into Central High School just before the last bell rang today and integrated it. A mob beat up a Negro photographer who acted as a decoy.

As the Negro students walked into the school, white students started a walkout. Thirty to 50 white students, who filled one study hall, marched down the front steps and joined the yelling mobs on the sidewalk.

"They're in, they're in," a white girl ran down the street, screaming.

"Let's go in and get the —— out," her mother said. But there was no immediate attempt by a crowd of perhaps 500 to invade the school.

The ruse was set up by five Negroes, one a photographer, who sneaked toward a 15th Street side entrance to the school. While the crowd was surging through police barricades to get at the five decoys, the nine Negro students slipped in through an entrance on 14th Street..

Catch Photographer

The four Negroes with the photographer ran, but the crowd caught the photographer, tripped him, stomped him, beat him and tore up his camera.

White children started marching out of the school. Thirty to 50 students were in the first groups to walk out.

"Nigger, you're not going to pass here! Block 'em. Block 'em," the crowd yelled as they saw the decoys. By the time the battered photographer managed to get to his feet and escape, police had cordoned off the area with cars and motorcycles.

Mothers on the sidewalk started screeching "I want my children out! I want my children out!"

A short, husky policeman ripped off his badge, yelled, "I quit" and walked off to cheers from the crowd. Photographers tried to take his picture but he lashed out at them with his nightstick, which he did not jettison.

After the Negroes were in and the first excitement was over, the crowd began to quiet down. City and state police, shoulder to shoulder, held them back.

'Negroes Kicked'

There were still shouts of "Come on out of there. . let's go in and get 'em." Some of the police held tear gas guns ready, and members of the mob, eyeing them, contented themselves with shouting and cat-calling.

Night Police Chief Gene Smith, in charge of the guard at the school, personally charged three men back into the crowd with his club.

One of the Negroes with the photographer was kicked. He didn't run as fast as the others; he

Clayton Powell Offers Program On Race Crisis

NEW YORK (UP)—Rep. Adam Clayton Powell Jr. (D-N.Y.) Sunday offered a two-point program aimed at dealing with the southern schoo integration crisis—nationwide prayer and legislation barring use of national guard troops to block integration.

The Negro congressman-minister announced from his Harlem pulpit in two sermons that he had prepared sweeping legislation to prohibit repetition of the Little Rock, Ark., school crisis, in which Gov. Orval E. Faubus used national guardsmen to keep nine Negro children out of Central High School for three weeks.

He said the legislation would provide for firmer federal control of the guard, abolition of racial segregation in the guard, use of the guard to aid citizens who comply with, not disobey the law, and immediate suspension of federal funds when these rules are violated.

Powell also sharply criticized his fellow Democrats, including former President Truman and Adlai Stevenson, for playing "cheap politics" with the Little Rock incident.

Powell referred to a Democratic advisory committee statement last week accusing President Eisenhower of failing to provide leadership in the Little Rock crisis.

Donora Woman Loses Control; Car Hits Home

Mrs. Annabelle Gillman, of 229 Second St., Donora, lost control of the car she was driving yesterday and crashed into the home occupied by Mrs. Rose Demedio at 290 Castner Ave., Donora.

Police said Mrs. Gillman, who was driving on a learner's permit, attempted to make a turn at Third and Castner when the car went out of control, ran over a curb and into the kitchen of the home. The unoccupied kitchen was badly damaged.

Mrs. Gillman was with her husband, a licensed driver, when the accident happened about 4:25 p.m.

No injuries were reported.

HOFFA NOT WORRIED — James R. Hoffa, a candidate for president of the Teamsters Union, leaves an executive session of the union in Miami Beach, Fla. Earlier, Federal Judge F. D. Letts signed an order which may delay group's general elections. A hearing was set on a move by rank-and-file members, who charge that 80 percent of the delegates were "handpicked" to vote for Hoffa.

Wiretap Charges Another Hurdle In Hoffa's Path

NEW YORK (UP) — Wiretap Charges against James R. Hoffa today placed another hurdle in the path he hopes to follow to the Teamsters union presidency.

Hoffa planned to attend a federal court pre-trial conference on charges that he tapped telephones of employes at his union headquarters in Detroit.

The stocky teamster vice president, leading contender to succeed the retiring Dave Beck in the union's top job, had been lining up support at Miami Beach where the teamsters convention opens Sept. 30

Hoffa, his top lieutenant Owen Brennan and New York wiretap specialist Bernard Bates Spindel are accused of conspiracy in the wiretap case. They have pleaded innocent.

At the same time, leaders of the AFL-CIO assembled here to pass judgment on Hoffa and the teamsters. The 1,400,000-member trucking union faces ouster from the federation over charges that it is dominated by corrupt influences.

Beck, Hoffa and other officials were singled out for violating "trade union morality" in a report by the AFL-CIO ethical practices committee last week. Hoffa was charged with promoting the interests of "a rogue's gallery" of labor racketeers.

Rostraver Junior Cuts Hand and Arm

A junior student at Rostraver High School was reported in "good" condition at Charleroi-Monessen Hospital today after surgeons used 55 stitches to close a severely cut hand and arm.

Terry Cloherty, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Cloherty, Belle Vernon R. D. 2, suffered the gash on Friday afternoon.

Rostraver High Principal Clifford Naylor said Cloherty pushed his arm through a window pane on the main door as he was en route to classes at the nearby vocational school building.

Out-of-control Car Rips Out Meter

A car operated by Gene Toney, Girard, Ohio, went out of control early yesterday morning and ripped out a parking meter on Schoonmaker Ave. between 11th and 12th streets in Monessen, police reported today.

The driver was not injured.

Two Separate Auto Accidents Take Lives Of Two from Area

Two different traffic accidents claimed the lives of a 36-year-old Monesesn woman and an 82-year-old Collinsburg man yesterday.

Mrs. Anna Piorkowski, of 4 Anderson Ct., Monessen, was killed early yesterday morning in an accident near Winchester, Va.

Simon Uchrincsko, Collinsburg, was struck and killed by an automobile last night near West Newton while walking home in a heavy rain along the Collinsburg road.

Mrs. Piorkowski was riding with her husband, Adam, when their car was struck by an unidentified car about 12 miles outside of Winchester. She was pronounced dead of multiple injuries on arrival at Winchester Memorial Hospital at 1 a. m.

'Everything Blank'

Her husband said today they were returning from visiting relatives in Augusta, Ga., and were looking for a motel near Winchester when tragedy struck.

"All I can remember is the other car hitting us. After that everything went blank," he said today.

Westmoreland County Coroner Stephen D. Yoney, Monessen, said Uchrincsko died instantly of a fractured skull, broken neck and compound fractures of both legs. The accident happened about 8 p. m.

Robert P. Landsperger, 39, West Newton, was identified as the driver of the car which struck Uchrincsko. Yoney said Landsperger told him the elderly victim was walking in the center of the highway and he did not see him in time. The driver was not held.

Mrs. Piorkowski, a resident of Monessen the past five years, was born in Washington, Pa., on Sept. 8, 1921. She was a member of St. Mary's Greek Catholic Church, Monessen.

Besides her husband, she is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Cherkun, Hahntown; three brothers, Joseph, Milwau-

Redstone Twp. School Closing Fight in Court

BROWNSVILLE, Pa. (UP)—Attorney William Duffield, of Uniontown, was expected to ask Fayette County Court today for an injunction blocking the transfer of pupils to a school termed unsafe by Redstone Twp. parents.

Duffield said Sunday he would seek the injunction to halt the transfer of children from the Allison No. 1 school to Briar Hill.

The school board recently closed Allison No. 1 and Royal School and assigned the 83 students to Briar Hill and Rowes Run schools. The protesting parents have argued that both schools are unsafe.

Meanwhile, school board president Joseph Manzuek mailed letters to 44 parents in Chestnut Ridge and 39 parents at Allison, warning they would be prosecuted for truancy unless their children reported to classes within three days.

Autumn Greeted In District by Cloudy Skies

Cloudy skies greeted the arrival of autumn in the district today at 3:27 a. m.

The overcast skies followed a weekend of showers which completely washed out the summerlong drought. Almost two inches of rain fell in the area last week.

The cloudy weather was expected to prevail throughout the day as a mass of cool dry air moved in from Canada.

The Canadian air will probably lower the temperature, the weather bureau reported. The humidity should drop, too.

The mercury may dip way down to the 30's in the mountain regions of the state. The Monessen area is scheduled for readings in the mid-40's during the night.

Tuesday will be continued cool with afternoon temperatures in the low 70's.

Roscoe Ledger Gets Access to Atomic Material

The Atomic Energy Commission has granted the Roscoe Ledger, a printing and lithography firm in Roscoe, access to confidential atomic information.

As a result, the Roscoe firm will be permitted to reproduce restricted information for companies authorized to use the atom for peaceful purposes.

The AEC said 1,364 access permits are now in force, of which 615 allow use of confidential information and 749 permit access to more restricted secret data.

A spokesman for the Roscoe Ledger refused to discuss the access permit, stating that all information was confidential.

Youth Electrocuted Erecting Lights

Anthony DiBattista, 22, Elizabeth R. D. 3, was electrocuted Saturday afternoon while helping to erect portable lights for a football game in Midway.

A part-time employe of John E. Trapp, Bethel, the victim was carrying a metal pole which came into contact with a high tension wire, authorities said. He was pronounced dead at the scene.

DiBattista is the son of Rev. Anthony DiBattista, pastor of the Church of Jesus Christ, Glassport.

Local Barbers To Jump Prices Tuesday, Oct. 1

It will cost more for adult haircuts and shaves in Monessen barber shops beginning Oct. 1.

Monessen Barbers Local 883 announced today that adult haircuts will cost $1.75 and shaves $1.25, effective a week from tomorrow.

The union said that the 25 cent increase is due to additional shop expenses as well as higher living costs.

The price of children's haircuts will remain at $1.50, the union said. All youngsters under 12 will be regarded as children.

The union announcement pointed out that the last price increase in the city was put into effect on Oct. 11, 1955.

The Monessen barbers also announced a change in hours. Beginning Oct. 1, barber shops will open at 9 a.m. and close at 5:30 p. m. every working day, including those prior to holidays.

About 20 barbers comprise the Monessen local. According to the union, they "unanimously" agreed on the increase during a meeting last week.

Barbers in Charleroi, Donora, Monongahela and Belle Vernon are represented by another local They have not announced a price increase as yet.

Former Donora Priest Killed

The Rev. Henry Geibel, 89, a former Donora priest, died yesterday in Mercy Hospital, Pittsburgh, of injuries suffered in a fall down a stairway at the Immaculate Conception High School in Connellsville.

Father Geibel, oldest priest in years of service in the Greensburg Roman Catholic Diocese, was injured Saturday. The accident occurred just 35 years to the day after the priest assumed the Immaculate Conception pastorate.

Father Geibel was ordained at the age of 34 in 1905. Previously he had helped to manage his father's oil properties.

One of his first parishes was St. Charles in Donora.

Rostraver Woman Is Named in Suit

A damage suit has been filed against a Rostraver Twp. woman as a result of an auto-truck collision on Sept. 1, 1955.

Joseph Rozik, Rostraver Twp., named Dorothy E. Sarber, also of Rostraver Twp., as the defendant in a suit in which he is seeking to recover damages in excess of $2,500.

Rozik claims that he was driving his truck on Route 51 when it was struck by the Sarber car coming off of the Fellsburg road.

Rescuers Near Men in Shaft Near Marianna

BULLETIN

BROWNSVILLE, Pa. (UP)—State Police said today rescuers were nearing a pocket of men trapped deep inside a coal mine at nearby Marianna and expected to bring some of the miners to the surface "very shortly."

BROWNSVILLE, Pa. (UP) — An explosion ripped through the Marianna shaft of the Bethlehem Steel Corp. mine at nearby Marianna today, trapping 11 men.

State Police Capt. Frank L. Garnow said contact was established with six of the men. There was no immediate word on the other trapped miners.

Trapped deep within the mine were nine foremen, a fire boss and a pumper. Authorities said rescuers would try to bring the men to the surface through the main shaft, a round-about route of about five miles because of small fires in surrounding runways.

Cause of the blast was not immediately determined.

Almost five hours after the blast telephone communications were established with a pocket of four trapped miners, Charles Sprowls, Stanley Majesky, William Nelson and John Krupzik. They said they were all burned, one so severely that he could take liquid only through a straw.

The trapped men, all acting in a supervisory capacity, had entered the mine to inspect a faulty ventilating fan. The mine had been closed because of the fan, and the explosion was believed caused by an accumulation of gas.

K. W. Bartlett, mine superintendent, said some of the other trapped men were identified as George Demko, Phil Kornett, James Wright, Mike Knizer, all of Marianna, and George Harmouth, of nearby Canonsburg.

Force of the blast scattered debris over a wide area, hampering efforts of the rescuers to lower a rope and a bucket of oxygen tanks to the trapped men.

Three separate rescue teams entered an old, played-out shaft, about four miles from the one in which the men were entombed, in hopes of finding all 11 alive.

The blast occurred at the portal of the mine in the tiny southwestern Pennsylvania community about seven miles west of here.

Rope Is Lowered

Capt. Garnow said a rope was lowered at least 500 feet down the shaft only minutes after the blast let loose at about 7:10 a.m. e.d.t.

A note was attached to the rope, and when it was withdrawn the names of four men were written on it: Sprowls, Nelson, Majesky and Kurpzik.

A few minutes later, contact was established with two more trapped miners "by shouting down the smoke-filled shaft.

A rescue team began making an entry from a tunnel which runs parallel to the shaft, but police said they were hampered by dense

'Few' Students Sent Home from Local Schools

Monessen school authorities today sent home a "few" students with high temperatures, but said there was no indication that the much-heralded "Asiatic flu" epidemic was about to hit.

Dr. Joseph Pallone, superintendent of schools reported 122 absences today, but added that was not an unusually high figure for Monday.

"We sent home 18 eighth grade students on Friday who were running temperatures of 99," Dr. Pallone said. "A few more were sent home today as a precautionary measure."

Dr. Pallone emphasized that there are "absolutely no indications" that an epidemic is about to begin.

"Our school physician, Dr. M. W. Heatter, is keeping close check of the situation and is sending home all students who indicate any symptoms," Dr. Pallone explained. "So far, our absent figures indicate no cause for alarm."

Other area schools also reported normal attendances today.

Work on Donner Begins Tomorrow

State highway department crews will begin "preliminary work" on Donner Ave. Monessen tomorrow.

Richard Belan, acting city engineer, said that highway crews will start "taking-up" bricks along the curbs to set the stage for blacktop paving.

Belan said there will be no detours during the preliminary work but he added that parking would be restricted in the affected areas.

The entire lengths of Donner Ave. will be repaved by the highway department crew. The project isn't expected to take longer than "a couple of weeks."

Donner Ave. carries Route 906 south through Monessen.

Jerome Hines to Sing In Civic Music Series

Members of the Monessen Belle Vernon Civic Music Association are being invited to renew their memberships for the 1957-58 concert season before the annual campaign opens on Oct. 14.

In a letter mailed to current members, Mrs. Paul Latkanich, president, said they would have priority until Oct. 12. Beginning Oct. 14, she said, memberships will be on a first-come, first-served basis.

Civic Music is preparing for its sixth season of winter concerts. Only members are admitted to the programs in the Monessen High School auditorium.

In her letter, Mrs. Latkanich also revealed that the Civic Music board of directors has already contracted for the appearance of Jerome Hines, star basso of the Judges and Politics

Three Westmoreland County judges have injected themselves into a political campaign in violation of judicial ethics, says an editorial on Page Four of The Daily Independent today.

Two of these judges have themselves benefitted from bi-partisan support and thus have "betrayed" citizens who voted for them on a non-partisan basis in order to keep the courts above partisan politics, the editorial states.

Are the judges of Westmoreland County to be "mere bootlickers of partisan cliques" or are they to be "men dedicated to justice under the law and free to serve all the people?"

This editorial, entitled "Judges Must Not Be Partisan Tools", discusses the key issue of this year's election in Westmoreland County. The Independent believes it deserves the attention of all readers.

County's Sitting Judges Avoid 'Ethics' Comment

Westmoreland County's three sitting judges today avoided public comment on a letter which questioned their "judicial ethics" in endorsing the Democratic nominees for common pleas court.

Only Judge Charles D. Copeland of Orphans court would talk to a Daily Independent reporter today. He had "no comment" but acknowledged receiving a letter from one of the three GOP judge nominees, Avra N. Pershing.

The other two sitting judges — Richard D. Laird and John O'Connell — were not available to reporters.

Pershing addressed a letter to the three county jurists on Saturday after they issued a joint statement supporting Democratic nominees Edward G. Bauer, L. Alexander Sculco and David H. Weiss in the Nov. 5 general election.

"I cannot believe that you have made such an announcement in view of our friendship and of the 28th Canon of Judicial Ethics of the American Bar Association," Pershing wrote in his letter.

The 28th Canon advises judges against political speeches and endorsements.

Pershing asked the judges to speak out if they were incorrectly quoted.

"If you should have made such a statement, I believe it would be proper that it be rescinded in keeping with the 28th Canon," Pershing stated.

Copeland told the Daily Independent that he had received the letter and had read it.

"I have no comment," he said. Copeland added that he had no intention of commenting on the letter "now or later."

Secretaries in the offices of both Laird and O'Connell, after some delay, informed The Daily Independent that the jurists were "not available."

Rain-slicked Highways Make Driving Dangerous

Six Lose Lives In Accidents Over Week End

By UNITED PRESS

Rain-slicked highways made driving hazardous throughout Pennsylvania and was blamed for numerous traffic accidents during the weekend.

Six persons lost their lives in motor accidents from 6 p.m. Friday to Sunday midnight. An hour before the week end began, five members of two Oregon families, including two children, were killed when their automobile crossed a medial strip near the Pittsburgh Interchange of the Pennsylvania Turnpike and crashed headon with a tractor trailer.

It was the third accident in which five persons were killed in the 17-year history of the superhighway. A New Kensington woman was killed Friday morning near the Allegheny Valley Interchange.

The fatalities:

Greensburg: Simon Uchrincsko, 82, a retired Collinsburg coal miner, was struck and killed in an automobile Sunday night while walking home in a heavy rain near West Newton. Robert P. Landsperger, 39, West Newton, the driver, was not held.

Butler: The Rev. Paul Walker, 79, Bradford, was killed Sunday night when an automobile in which he was riding skidded on a curve and rolled into a creek near Chicora. Daniel Russell, 57, Bradford, driver of the car, and his wife, Ellen, 48, were injured.

Washington: Mrs. Cecilia V. Barnes, 38, Canonsburg, Pa., was injured fatally Friday when her auto skidded on Route 19, struck a guard rail and overturned.

Bethlehem: Annette Stoneback, 20, and Russell Snyder, 23, both of Hellertown, were killed Sunday when the automobile in which they were riding ran out of control and struck two utility poles near Bethlehem. Police said the car was driven by Joel Stoneback, 21, brother of the dead girl.

Easton: Alfred Reinhardt, 22, Mount Bethel, near Easton, was killed Sunday when an automobile in which he was a passenger struck a pole on Route 611 near Portland. Reinhardt was riding in a car driven by Charles Gardner, of Portland. Gardner and Claudia Frable, 15, Bangor, were injured.

Ten Railroad Cars Derailed; 30 Hurt

PEABODY, Kan. (UP) — Ten cars of the Rock Island Railroad's Twin-Star Rocket passenger train derailed at high speed today, injuring about 30 persons.

No fatalities were reported in the wreck and authorities said none of the injured appeared to be in critical condition. The injured were rushed to hospitals in nearby Newton, Marion and Wichita.

B. Fisher, Rock Island station agent here, said the cars jumped the track about 200 yards from the depot and skidded to a halt at the station.

Five of the passenger cars toppled over onto their sides and the others tilted at crazy angles.

Fisher said the Minneapolis, Minn., to Houston, Tex., train does not stop at Peabody but speeds through the yards at 60 to 80 miles per hour. He said the train was right on schedule when it reached the yards at 1 p. m., c.s.t.

Among the cars was a private coach containing Harold Barry, purchasing manager of the railroad, and his family, who was making an inspection tour of the line.

"The good Lord sure was with these people," Barry said.

Engineer W. A. Dawson, 68, Herington, Kan., said he had "no sensation" of a wreck and was unaware the cars derailed until the baggage car behind the double diesel engine units began rocking.

L. R. Riddiough, who lives near the crash scene, said he was the first to reach the wreckage and found the passengers "unusually calm." He said there were no "screams or hysteria" in the darkened, overturned cars.

The uninjured passengers among the 87 persons aboard the train were taken to Wichita by bus and continued their journey.

Negroes

stood his ground after a preliminary start, and even after he was kicked, didn't run.

"Get a rope. . .hang him. . kill the black SOB," members of the mob yelled. "They're getting in the back door."

But by that time it was too late. The Negroes were in. They got through just before the last bell rang at 8:55 a.m.

Police scaled off the entrance to the school last night to everyone except teachers and pupils and at least 50 state police joined a picked squad of city police in taking over guard duty.

Frightening Possibilities

The situation possessed the most frightening possibilities for wholesale violence of any since the U.S. Supreme Court ordered desegregation of public schools in April, 1954.

It had steadily been growing more tense since the night of Sept. 2, when Gov. Orval Faubus, saying he had reports of imminent violence, called out the guard to prevent the school's integration.

Faubus sent the guard home last Friday night, when U.S. District Judge Ronald N. Davies decided the governor's fear of violence were groundless and put him under injunction not to interfere with the school's integration.

Negro publisher L. C. Bates, whose wife is president of the Arkansas NAACP chapter, said he had talked to four of the negroes last night and they told him they did not intend to enter Central high today.

The United Press also talked to four of the Negroes, who said Bates had not spoken to them, and they all said they had not decided what to do.

Demonstration Hinted

There were hints that the league of Central high mothers would start a demonstration in front of the school.

"We hope to have a big demonstration to show that the people of Little Rock are against integration," Mrs. Margaret Jackson, vice president of the league, said "I don't think the negroes will get in because I don't think the people will let them."

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents, it was learned, were ordered to mingle with the crowd In Washington, the Justice Department was ready to ask Judge Davies to put under injunction anybody who interferes with the negroes.

Aid Requested

Mayor Woodrow Wilson Mann, Police Chief Marvin Potts and school superintendent Virgil Blossom telephoned Acting Gov. Nathan Gordon in Morrilton yesterday and asked him to put 150 guardsmen on a standby basis, ready for instant duty if violence gets out of hand.

But 30 minutes later, when they telephoned back to ask whether it had been done, Gordon, who took over as governor when Faubus left for the southern governors' conference at Sea Island, Ga., demanded "something on paper" so he wouldn't get caught in the middle.

He also told them that two United Press reporters were at his elbow. Potts, Mann and Blossom told Gordon to "forget it," and the guard was not called out again.

Canadian Prime Minister Makes His UN Debut

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP) —Prime Minister John D. Diefenbaker of Canada makes his first appearance before the U.N. General Assembly today to present his government's position on major international problems.

Canada's delegation to the 12th general assembly is headed by—newly-appointed external affairs minister Sydney E. Smith. But Diefenbaker flew from Ottawa to represent his government in the assembly's annual debate.

His policy speech was awaited with interest by delegates, long accustomed to the quiet eloquence and persuasiveness of Lester Pearson, a former assembly president and recognized for years as a leader of the world organization.

The theme of the debate was set last week by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

Both placed heavy emphasis on disarmament and the Middle East, leaving little doubt that these two issues on which East and West are so far apart, would dominate the assembly's three-month-long session.

Moscow radio yesterday called on the U.N. to get "things moving" on disarmament. It said it was the "sacred duty" of the U.N. to adopt the proposals made by Gromyko in his speech Friday.

Israeli Polio Is Less This Summer

JERUSALEM, (Israeli Sector), (UP)—Only 7 cases of polio were reported in Israel this summer compared with a minimum of 300 cases in previous years since 1950, the Israeli health ministry reported today.

The ministry said the number of polio cases was only one-twentieth as great among 116,000 children who received Salk polio vaccine as among 8,500 children who were not inoculated.

'Whitney' Test Finally Set Off in Nevada

ANGEL'S PEAK, Nev. (UP) — "Whitney," the oft - postponed "hard luck" nuclear test of the Atomic Energy Commission's Operation Plumbob, sent a thunderclap across the Nevada desert today as it was exploded atop a 500-foot steel tower.

The device, finally detonated as the 22nd scheduled test of the summer series, had a yield estimated at the equivalent of 15,000 tons of TNT as it vaporized its tower and blossomed into a glowing ball of fire that faded within seconds after its firing at 5:30 a.m. p.d.t.

Sands of the desert at the Yucca Flat test site were sucked up into the air to form a towering stem for the familiar mushroom pattern that climbed rapidly in the early dawn.

The blast flashed over the desert floor with an eerie purple glow, and fingers of the light touched the distant peak on Mt. Whitney, for which the blast was named, in California's Sierra Nevada mountain range some 120 miles to the west.

The flash was seen in all surrounding western states. It was clearly visible through light haze in Los Angeles and also was reported by observers in San Francisco.

Prince Charles Leaves For Boarding School

LONDON (UP) — Nine-year-old Prince Charles leaves the comforts of Buckingham Palace today for an austere but exclusive boarding school where his father the Duke of Edinburgh studied when he was a child.

The school is Cheam, 50 miles west of London, where Charles will face the stiff discipline and the boyish pranks of his schoolmates until he is 12. He is the first heir to the British throne to attend such a school.

When he is 12 he is to attend Eton which has produced many of Britain's leaders. There was no announcement of his plans after that, but many of Britain's past kings trained for the sea at the Royal Naval College at Dartmouth.

His education, which began last year by attendance at a day school in London, is part of Queen Elizabeth's carefully thought out program of giving him a "normal" education that will more fully equip him as a modern monarch.

Most British sovereigns were tutored at home, and this is Charles' first experience away from the palace. He will have three vacations a year, one after each term, adding up to four months. But until he is 12 he will see little of Buckingham Palace.

Charles, Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip interrupted their summer vacation at Balmoral Castle in the Scottish highlands last night so they could drive Charles to his first day at the Cheam school. A crowd of 300 persons gave him a cheer when he boarded the train at Aberdeen.

Governor of Florida In Warning to South

SEA ISLAND, Ga. (UP) — Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida told the southern governors conference today that the South will "bury itself politically for decades to come" if it should "wrap itself in a Confederate blanket and consume itself in racial furor."

In a speech prepared for delivery to the conference, which opened Sunday at this Georgia coastal resort, Collins said, "the greatest danger in the south is that our people will fail to understand the change taking place all around them."

Collins spoke on the subject, "can a southerner be elected president?"

Yes, he said, a southerner can win the presidency but to do so he must be a man of competence and achievement whose "allegiance to the national interest and welfare must be forceful, absolute and unquestioned."

The presence of Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus at the conference kept the integration-states' rights issue before the governors in private conversations although it was not mentioned on the formal agenda.

Faubus said Sunday he had not discussed the matter with other governors here but at a news conference he blamed Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. and other members of President Eisenhower's "palace guard" for "aggravating" the touchy integration situation at Little Rock.

Gov. Luther Hodges of North Carolina, the conference chairman, said in a speech prepared for delivery today that "it is high time that more of our political leaders came out for the 'majority' in this country instead of persisting in an unsightly scramble to appease 'minorities.'"

Hodges said the South "has often been subjected to thoughtless and inaccurate criticism" but that the basic attitudes of the average northerner are "not a great deal different from that of the southern citizen."

Metropolitan Opera, during this winter's series.

Mrs. Latkanich said it was necessary to arrange in advance for the Hines recital as the famous singer is making only a limited tour this season. The date of his appearance here will be announced later.

The membership campaign will be conducted between Oct. 14 and Oct. 26 with the membership list definitely closing on the latter date.

"This year we feel the capacity of 1,000 members will be reached," Mrs. Latkanich wrote. Civic Music had over 900 members last season, drawing music lovers from throughout the district.

Present members who wish to be assured of admission this year should send in their renewals promptly. Dues are $6 for adults and $3 for students, the same as in previous years.

All Civic Music funds are used for artists' fees and other expenses in connection with the programs. There are no profits.

In each previous season four concerts have been presented and a similar number is expected to be arranged by the talent committee at the conclusion of the membership campaign.

Last winter the numbers offered were: The Vienna String Symphony; Stan Freeman, pianist; the Singing Boys of Norway, and Claramae Turner, contralto.

Directing the membership campaign this year will be Mrs. Mildred Krasik, chairman, and Thomas F. Preston, co-chairman.

Ike in Capital for Day of Conferences, Round of Speeches

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower returned to the capital today for a busy one - day round of speeches and conferences.

Talks with Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. on integration and with Crown Prince Faisal of Saudi Arabia on the tense Middle East were sandwiched between two speeches on his busy schedule.

Eisenbower, tanned and relaxed, flew in from his Newport, R.I., vacation retreat aboard the presidential plane Columbine III at 9:10 a.m. e.d.t.

Enroute, he held an airborne conference with Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks who told newsmen in Newport that he and the President "had some things we wanted to talk about. . . just miscellaneous."

The President drove immediately to the Sheraton Park Hotel to address top free world economists at the opening of the annual meeting of governors of the International Bank, the International Monetary Fund, and the International Finance Corp.

The President also was to address a meeting on small business after White House conferences with Faisal and Brownell.

The meeting with Faisal was officially billed as a "courtesy call" but those scheduled to attend included Secretary of State John Foster Dulles; William Rountree, Assistant Secretary of State for Near Eastern Affairs and Saudi Arabian Ambassador Sheikh Abdullah Alkhayyal. Observers said the tense middle eastern situation was almost certain to come under discussion even though the meeting was scheduled only for one half-hour.

The talk with Brownell was expected to center on the Little Rock, Ark., school integration developments.

The relaxed-looking president planned to rise about dawn, leave the Newport naval base by helicopter and switch to the presidential plane Columbine III for the flight to the capital.

He was expected to arrive at National airport at 9:30 e.d.t. and plunge immediately into a four and a half hour lineup of public appearances and top level talks.

He planned to be back aboard the Columbine III by 2 p.m. e.d.t., flying back to his fashionable seaside vacation spot in plenty of time for dinner.

Country Club Will Hear Pool Discussion

A proposed plan for financing construction of a swimming pool at the Monongahela Valley Country Club will be explained to the active membership at a meeting on Wednesday in the clubhouse.

A representative of the Columbian National Life Insurance Co. will outline a program for underwriting expenses.

Active members — stockholders as defined by the bylaws of the club — will probably vote on the financing plan following a discussion.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 8 p. m.

District Man Is Promoted at Donora

Arthur D. Breckenridge, Washington Rd., Belle Vernon R. D. 3, has been appointed works procedure designer in the accounting department of the American Steel and Wire Division plant at Donora.

Breckenridge, a native of Alliance, Ohio, started his career with American Steel and Wire, a subsidiary of U. S. Steel, as a management trainee in 1954 at the Donora plant.

Sales Representative For Peoples Gas

Glenn Conley, 188 Spring Ave., Pittsburgh, had been appointed district sales representative by the Peoples Natural Gas Co.

He will work out of the Monessen office, succeeding Robert Pettigrew, Monessen, who has been elevated to the position of builder representative.

A former school teacher, Conley has been associated with Peoples for the past two years.

Saudi Arabian Prince in Talks With President

By UNITED PRESS

Crown Prince Feisal of Saudi Arabia confers today in Washington with President Eisenhower (11:30 a. m. (E.D.T.). Middle East dispatches said the visit was the start of a Saudi diplomatic offensive to ease tension between the United States and Syria.

Feisal is both foreign minister and premier of Saudi Arabia and his meeting with Eisenhower is the first of a series this week aimed at ironing out American-Syrian troubles.

On Wednesday King Saud of Saudi Arabia goes to Damascus for talks with Syrian President Shukri El Kuwatly and other Syrian leaders. Unconfirmed reports in Jeddah, Saudi Arabia, said President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt may join them.

United Press correspondent Joe Morris reported from Cairo the entire Arab world was watching the Saudi moves carefully because of Saudi Arabia's role in the current tension. Saudi Arabia, which has long been linked with the west, has thrown its full support to Syria.

'Courtesy Call'

Because of Saud's recognized ability to work successfully with both the Arab nationalist powers and the west, Morris reported, Mideast observers believed he had the best chance of anybody to mediate.

By the time King Saud meets with Kuwatly he will have had a full report from Feisal on his talks with Eisenhower.

Official sources in Washington called the Feisal-Eisenhower visit a "courtesy call," but Middle East dispatches recently reported Saud had written a number of letters to Eisenhower expressing dismay at the U.S. position on Syria and promising support to Syria in the dispute.

Mideast observers said the chief hope for success in the 30-minute Washington talk lay in Eisenhower's ability to convince Feisal the United States was not planning any "aggression" against Syria or encouraging Israel, Iraq or Turkey to attack Syria.

Hoxsey Cancer Clinic Goes on Trial Today

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Hoxsey Cancer Clinic of Portage, Pa., goes on trial in Federal Court today on charges of misbranding by labeling its present treatment as the Hoxsey "cure."

The government has charged that patients who are treated at the clinic receive medication which does not include the essential ingredients of the original Hoxsey cure, which the Food and Drug Administration said is worthless.

The government won an earlier court battle with the clinic when it was ruled that the pills used in the Hoxsey cure be banned from interstate commerce.

Food and Drug agents charged that the clinic's present treatment is just as worthless as the Hoxsey method for curing internal cancer. A federal investigator reported that the clinic charged $400 for treatments that include a simple drug which contains a laxative, antacid yeast and vitamin C. tablets.

Judge John L Miller is also expected to rule on a request by former State Sen. John Haluska, clinic administrator, that the jurist disqualify himself on grounds he is prejudiced against the clinic.

In addition to the mislabeling charges, Judge Miller will be asked to stop the clinic from distributing its current "cure" and to prevent it from treating out-of-state patients.

Adult Education Registration at School Tonight

Registration will be held tonight for a number of adult education classes which will be offered this term by the Monessen public school district.

Those interested in all vocational and sewing classes are scheduled to register tonight at the Vocational School or the Junior High.

Registrations for these classes will be accepted at the Vocational School from 7 to 10 p. m.: auto mechanics, electric theory, wiring and power, machine shop practice, mechanical drawing, show card painting, silk screen process and metallurgy.

A $5 forfeit fee is required of city residents. This money will be returned if the student attends 75 per cent of the classes during the term. A tuition of $8 is charged non-residents.

Those who intend to enroll in the dressmaking, tailoring and home decorating classes are to register at the Junior High sewing room between 7 and 9 p. m. The forfeit fee is $3 for Monessen residents, while the tuition fee for non-residents is $8.

Vocational classes will be conducted on Mondays and Wednesdays from 7 to 10 p. m. The sewing classes will be held Monday through Friday from 6 to 10 p. m. for a period of 15 weeks per semester.

Donora Youth Gets $1,750 in Damage Suit

A compromise settlement of $1,750 has been approved in Washington County Court to cover the expense of injuries suffered by a Donora youth when he fell through the floor of a partly remodeled building.

The accident occured on Dec. 15, 1956 at the American Rusin Political and Beneficial Club, Donora. At the time, the building was being remodeled by the Set Construction Co., Donora.

The plaintiff, Tyrone Johnson, 17, argued in his suit that he was delivering soda pop for the Mission Beverage Co. and was directed to the second floor. He said he fell through a hole and dropped 15 feet to the floor below, suffering severe injuries.

Named as defendant in the case was Harry Susko, trading as the Set Construction Co.

The court approved $916.67 to the minor plaintiff; $250 to his parents for payment of medical expenses and $583.33 in payment of counsel fees.

TWA to Get Four British Airliners

LONDON (UP) — The state-owned British overseas airways corporation has given in to government pressure and agree to release four of its ordered Britannia airliners to American Trans World Airlines, aviation sources said today.

The sources said, however, that BOAC wants up to three million pounds ($8,400,000) in compensation for revenue it expects to lose by releasing the planes.

Seven District Youths Are Held Following Route 88 Free-for-all

Seven Washington County youths are being held on charges of aggravated assault and battery following a fight in which a 16-year old New Eagle boy was badly cut with a beer bottle Friday night on Route 88 between Monongahela and Finleyville.

Injured was William Nakutis, 24, of New Eagle. He was taken to Monongahela Memorial Hospital with cuts on the face, back, chest and stomach after allegedly being attacked by Robert Rodgers, 19, of R. D., Finleyville. Nakutis was released yesterday.

State police said the episode began when a carload of boys in one car was stopped by three other boys in another car and challenged to a fight.

Police identified the occupants of the first car as Walter Waterman, 18, Pittsburgh; Harry Smith, 17, Elizabeth; Joseph Rodgers, 19, and his brother, Robert, Finleyville, and Edward Soukup, 19, Pittsburgh.

Occupants of the second car were Ernest Leezer, 16, New Eagle; Thomas Nakutis, 16, and the victim, William Nakutis, New Eagle.

Joseph Rodgers, driver of the first car, said at a hearing before Finleyville Justice of the Peace Fred J. Broglie they ignored the challenge of the other three youths, but were stopped again on Route 88.

There, Rodgers said, William Nakutis dragged the young Rodgers boy out of the car and began to hit him. Nakutis was described as a 180-pound six footer and Rodgers a short 130-pounder. Rodgers said he hit Nakutis on the head with a broken beer bottle.

Nakutis however told Belle Vernon State Police that Edward Soukup held a gun on Nakutis friends and let the other four boys work him over with the beer bottle. A .22 caliber revolver was taken from Soukup by State Police. It was also discovered that Soukup had bought the gun only two hours before. He was charged with violation of the uniform firearms act.

Six of the youths were held under $1000 bail and Robert Rodgers under $1500 bond pending a hearing tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. before Broglie.

MacArthur Speaks Mind on Taxes

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur said last night that the 'government no longer believes free men can manage their own affairs."

The controversial World War II military commander said over a nationwide radio program that operation of present income tax laws "resembles the Soviet force labor system" and "reduces the citizen to long periods almost to involuntary servitude." MacArthur spoke on the Manion forum radio program.

Student Dies in Fraternity Fall

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UP) —Walter J. Majka, 21, a Binghamton, N.Y., civil engineering student at Pennsylvania State University, died Sunday of injuries suffered in a fall at a campus fraternity party.

Penn State officials said Majka tumbled from a three-foot wall Saturday night and his head struck a cement block on a patio floor.

Majka was first treated at the university hospital. He suffered a relapse Sunday afternoon and was rushed to Centre County Hospital at Bellefonte where he died shortly after being admitted about 5:30 p.m.

CSTC Homecoming to Be Held on Oct. 12

Judges Must not Be Partisan Tools

HOW FAR the courts of Westmoreland County have been drawn into partisan politics was demonstrated again last week by the three judges who are not candidates this year.

In flagrant violation of the Canons of Judicial Ethics of the American Bar Association, Judges Laird and O'Connell of common pleas court and Judge Copeland of orphans court let themselves be quoted as endorsing the three Democratic candidates for judge — Judges Edward G. Bauer and David H. Weiss and District Attorney Sculco.

At least Judges Laird and O'Connell are familiar with the Canons. Along with Judge Bauer, they twisted Canon 35 to justify their controversial edict against news pictures in the courthouse and attempted to send seven newspapermen to jail for violating the edict.

So how could they have missed Canon 28, which says under the heading, "Partisan Politics":

"While entitled to entertain his personal views of political questions . . . it is inevitable that suspicion of being warped by political bias will attach to a judge who becomes the active promoter of the interests of one political party as against another. He should avoid making political speeches . . . (or) the public endorsement of candidates . . . Nor (should he) engage generally in partisan activities."

* * *

WE ARE NOT surprised that Judge O'Connell would let himself and his office be used in this unethical fashion. He is a creature of the courthouse machine and has never behaved otherwise.

But Judges Laird and Copeland have good reason to respect the tradition, implicit in Canon 28, which puts the courts above party and out of reach of partisan manipulation. Both these judges have enjoyed bi-partisan support, on occasions even receiving the nominations of both major parties. For this reason those citizens, irrespective of party, who like to hold the courts in respect and who have voted for Judges Laird and Copeland on a non-partisan basis have a right to feel that they have been betrayed.

On June 5, 1937, the day following Judge Laird's appointment to the bench by then Governor Earle, The Daily Independent said in an editorial:

"We believe that the appointment of Richard D. Laird as judge. . . will be popular with the people. . . Politically he is not a hidebound partisan and his friends are numbered among all political faiths. . . While Mr. Laird has been a lifelong Democrat, he has never been charged with political conduct that would brand him as either belonging to or supporting factional politics. . ."

With this kind of support, Judge Laird was nominated by both the Republican and Democratic parties and his election was thus assured. We have to wonder now whether he comprehended his responsibility to all the people.

Judge Laird is nearing retirement, and The Daily Independent deeply regrets that a judge whom it could recommend so confidently 20 years ago as being worthy of election on a non-partisan basis should go out of office behaving like a routine political hack.

Judge Copeland likewise has sought and received support above party considerations. When he was last before the voters as a candidate, this paper commended his work and urged voters of both parties to vote for him.

Whatever Judges Laird and Copeland may think of their colleague, Judge Bauer, it defies belief that, as competent lawyers themselves, they honestly regard Messrs. Sculco and Weiss as being professionally fitted for the bench. The only other conclusion possible is that Judges Laird and Copeland have thoughtlessly lent themselves and the prestige of their honorable offices to the devices of a partisan group seeking to establish complete control over the courts.

* * *

THE REPUBLICAN candidates in this election — Avra N. Pershing, Robert H. Rial and Willis Topper — are correct in emphasizing the necessity for keeping politics out of the administration of justice and of keeping judges out of the muck of partisanship. Their joint pledge to that effect is in sharp contrast to the conduct of the present judges.

Mr. Pershing has invited the attention of Judges Laird and Copeland to the provisions of Canon 28 and has asked them to rescind their unethical endorsements.

This request is particularly appropriate coming from Mr. Pershing. He is a lawyer of the highest professional standing, and we're sure the judges know he is absolutely sincere in his concern for the political independence and integrity of the courts.

The issue stands out more clearly every day as the election approaches. Are the judges to be mere bootlickers of partisan cliques with special interests to be served? Or are they going to be men dedicated to justice under the law and free to serve all the people?

"The place of justice," said Bacon, "is a hallowed place." And so it must be.

But how can the "place of justice" be "hallowed" if the judge is nothing more than a partisan puppet? We hope the people of Westmoreland County ponder this well before Nov. 5.

From Bonn—

An Analysis Of Adenauer's Victory

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

BONN — In judging the long-term consequences of the remarkable German elections last week, there are three questions which need to be asked and, if possible, answered. They are these:

What is the secret of Chancellor Adenauer's unprecedented achievement, that of winning a popular and absolute parliamentary majority for the first time in German history?

Mr. Drummond

Why is there more opposition to Adenauer in the nation than this vote suggests?

What will the Social Democrats, the second largest part in Germany, have to do to become a strong, effective opposition party, to be able to challenge Dr. Adenauer's Christian Democratic Union at the polls and thus to secure the two-party system which has now tentatively been brought into being?

The Adenauer Secret — Undoubtedly there are many ingredients in Adenauer's political success. Germany's mounting prosperity together with high employment and good wages, were great assets. The East Zone Communists helped unintentionally by urging the members of the outlawed West German Communist Party to vote for the Social Democrats. Nikita Khrushchev helped by coming to East Berlin and delivering a slashing attack on the Chancellor.

But these are some of the ingredients of the Adenauer victory, not the secret itself. The secret is, I think, that Dr. Adenauer has introduced something new in German politics, something substantially American. In the Christian Democratic Union he has created a new, middle-road political party which though basically conservative is limited to no single class and seeks to win a national consensus of voters as do Republican and Democratic parties in the United States.

The CDU is international, pro-Western in foreign policy, free enterprise in economics and perhaps even more liberal in welfare legislation than modern Republicanism. Adenauer has made steady inroads on the German labor vote. He got 55 per cent of the vote in the industrial Ruhr last week.

While most European political leaders seek to govern by a national coalition of parties, Chancellor Adenauer created a single party which showed it could command a national coalition of voters and that, it seems to me, is the largest secret of his success.

The Adenauer Opposition — Even today Adenauer can by no means take the German voters for granted. A year ago his popularity was seriously on the wane and it seemed likely that he would be defeated. Many Germans wanted a change for its own sake. They thought two terms were enough. They were concerned over his age.

Then why wasn't the opposition vote greater? I believe the main reason is that Erich Ollenhauer and the Social Democrats did not offer a set of alternative policies acceptable to the nation. Ollenhauer made it impossible for the Germans to change governments without weakening their ties with the United States and the West which they obviously were determined not to do. The Ollenhauer appeal was also mainly a left-wing class appeal and it wasn't enough.

What Next — After last week's election there remains only two major parties. That in itself is good. But the Social Democrats received only 32 per cent of the vote and many Germans feel that the SDP's continued weakness means that the present healthy beginnings of a two-party system in Germany could deteriorate into a one-party system with all the dangers to democracy that could be involved.

This is why the Social Democratic party leaders are engaged in some critical self-examination.

This is why many outside observers believe that the Social Democrats can become an effective opposition to Adenauer capable of gaining office in the future only if they, too, greatly broaden the base of their class-minded policies and appeal to a national consensus of voters.

This is why the "Neue Ruhr Zeitung," a leading independent pro-socialist newspaper, this week appealed to the Social Democrats to put "outdated Marxist theories" behind it forever, to abandon doctrinaire socialism and to offer Germany a moderate left-of-center alternative to the massively successful CDU.

It looks to me as though the German voters want a bi-partisan pro-Western foreign policy and that until the Social Democrats offer it, they face a hard road trying to unseat the Adenauer party.

Russia to Develop Syria

By DREW PEARSON

(Editor's note: Drew Pearson is traveling through the Near East, reporting on the explosive situation there.)

DAMASCUS — (by cable) — The Russian goal in Syria unquestionably is to develop that country economically and socially as a model to the Arab world. There is no sign of Syria's adopting Communism as a political doctrine. Moscow is too smart to try this.

Mr. Pearson

The Kremlin knows Communism is anathema to the Moslems but it also knows these areas have lain fallow for centuries under Turkish rule and are now ripe for cultivation. Accordingly, the Kremlin has stolen the United States Marshall Plan-Point 4 strategy and combined both with more money than Uncle Sam ever thought of spending.

Whereas the United States offered Syria $60 million through the World Bank at five per cent interest, Moscow offered Syria between $350 and $400 million at two per cent. Whereas the United States offered Syria $5 million worth of arms, Russia offered around $150 million. True, our arms offer was an outright gift while the Russian arms are being paid for on a long-term basis but the Russian offer of a vast arsenal was gobbled up immediately.

Aided Russian Victory

American farm policy plus American lackadaisical diplomacy also contributed to the Russian victory in that: (1) U. S. diplomats failed to cultivate sufficiently the young Syrian army officers who were rebelling against the country's old feudal rule, and (2) anti-Communist Ezra Benson unwittingly played into Communist hands by stealing Syria's wheat market.

Syria had long exported wheat to southern Europe, especially Italy, but Benson — frantically casting around for ways to ease his bulging bins — negotiated a sizeable wheat deal at a cheap price with Italy. This not only unsurped the Syrian market but lowered the price of wheat.

At this juncture Communist Bulgaria came along with an offer to buy Syrian wheat at $5 per ton above the world price in exchange for various Iron Curtain commodities. Syria now is getting Czech arms, Hungarian telephones made in the I.T.T. plant Hungary seized from the United States, plus other equipment.

It was partly through this barter deal that Iron Curtain experts got into Syria on the most comprehensive program seen in the Near East. It puts into effect for Syria what Harry Truman started planning for the entire Near East — namely, irrigation, roads public works, to give the Near East the same 60,000,000 population it had under the Roman and Greek Empires instead of the sub-standard ill-nourished 25,000,000 it has today.

Here's how the Truman plan has been unsurped by Iron Curtain leadership: The new Syrian port of Latakia being built by the Yugoslavs at a cost of about $14 million was once a prosperous city during the time of the Crusaders. Latakia's harbor improvements, being constructed by the Yugoslavs who got the contract as low bidders, have two Danish engineers in actual charge. The swamps behind Latakia are being drained by Bulgarians at a cost of $7 million. Another $10 million is to be spent on roads to the harbor.

Squeeze on Lebanon

The net effect of this tremendous harbor development will be to squeeze out Syria's neighbor, Lebanon, whose famed seaport, Beirut, has prospered since the days of the Roman Empire. Lebanon, a good friend of the United States and the most reasonable Arab state toward Israel, is already suffering from border clashes and deteriorating relations with Syria.

Syrian development provides for a $50 million railroad linking Latakia with the hinterland plus about $30 million for irrigation and power projects plus six new airports to be constructed before 1960 under Bulgarian supervision.

Reds in Driver's Seat

All this is taking place in a country with which the United States enjoyed excellent past relations and which until recently had been following American leadership. The steps by which we lost that leadership are:

1. As early as 1954 Russia picked Syria as a key nation to woo in the Near East. The Russians knew the Syrians, isolated by mountains were proud, ambitous, suspicious, as well as located astride two American and British pipelines and old caravan routes holding the geographic key to the Near East.

2. Arab hatred for Israel ricocheted against the United States because of U. S. friendship for Israel.

3. Social ferment began in Syria with unrest among the peasant classes against the landlords and the opposition of young army officers against the old army clique trained under French officers, like Gen. Afid Bizri, now Chief of Staff, and General Serraj, Gestapo chief in Syria. The young officers chafed at the easygoing attitude of their superiors.

While American observers failed to keep step with the new order, their friends were with the old order. It's the new order today, however, which is ruling Syria. The United States is on the outside looking in as Russian experts, in the driver's seat, help to guide, develop and dominate this key country of the Arab world.

At the present moment I see little chance for a change.

Thirty Years Ago—

Friday, Sept. 23, 1927

Roy W. Honsberger's Monessen High grid squad is getting into splendid trim for the opening game of the 1927 scholastic grid season here with Waynesburg High School tomorrow. Honsberger was recently advanced to general athletic coach at Monessen after serving for three years as basketball mentor.

Kelly and Kelly, contractors for the First National Bank and Trust Co. building will not be subject to a penalty for failure to complete the work in the specified time. The contract was drawn with a penalty for every day the firm failed to complete the building, the time specified for the finishing being eight months.

Mary Staretz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Staretz of Reed Ave., will leave tomorrow to resume her duties at Seton Hill College, Greensburg.

Twenty Years Ago

Thursday, Sept. 23, 1937

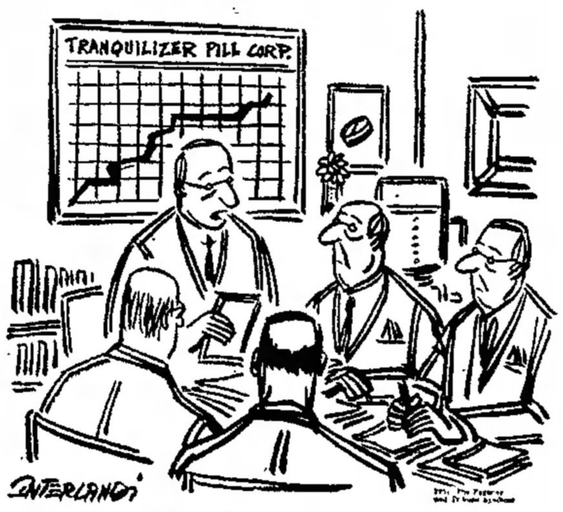
Monessen and Belle Vernon members of Company F, 320th Infantry, 80th Division, known as the Blue Ridge outfit, today prepared to renew old acquaintances at their annual reunion Saturday night, Sept. 25.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Schmitt and daughter Carol of Donora, have returned to their home from a ten-day motor trip to Boston, Mass. and other points of interest in the New England states.

Ten Years Ago—

The first men in history to fly the Atlantic with a push-button pilot that lifted their U. S. Air Forces C-25 transport off the ground steered it 2,400 miles and landed it without a bobble, planned today to let their mechanical flier take them back home to England. Col. James M. Gillespie was in command of it.

The Cynic's Corner—



"It's probably a coincidence, but the increase in sales coincides with Russia's announcement of an intercontinental missile!"

National Affairs—

Knowland, Nixon Win Support of Negroes

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UP)—Such dissimilar public figures as Gov. Averell Harriman of New York and Satchmo Armstrong, the hot horn, are alike in accusing President Eisenhower of fumbling the Arkansas integration ball.

Armstrong is a Negro, talented beyond most men. Harriman is the Democratic governor of a state in which the Negro vote is one of several powerful minorities. They evidently are alike in desiring a federal crackdown on Gov. Orval E. Faubus who called out the National Guard in Little Rock, Ark.

Mr. Wilson

Harriman, with former President Truman, Adlai E. Stevenson, Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), accused Eisenhower of failing in duty in his relation with integration in Arkansas. Harriman and the others are members of an advisory committee which states policy for the Democratic Party.

Armstrong More Vigorous

Armstrong disapproved of the President in more vigorous language and, what with one thing and another, it appears that the Republicans have not yet made much political hay in the civil rights pasture.

It is strange that this should be so because many persons believe more has been accomplished for Negro citizens' civil rights during Eisenhower's White House tenure than in all the years Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman lived there. Roosevelt never got around to a powerhouse effort for civil rights legislation. Truman tried and failed.

Equally strange is the fact that Vice President Richard M. Nixon has escaped, so far, blame for whatever the administration's critics dislike in Eisenhower's handling of Faubus. Nixon has been the administration whipping boy, especially in the area of rights and the alleged violations thereof.

There has been over the years a substantial effort to get rid of Nixon before he could get his name on top of a Republican presidential ticket and, maybe, be elected. He probably would be taking a public licking now for any administration sins of omission in dealing with Faubus but for the fact that the vice president long since has been firmly on record with respect to civil rights and Negroes.

Denounced By South

He supported last January the effort in the Senate to curb filibusters by changing Senate rules. The proposal lost, 55-38. Nixon and Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif.) were chief administration strategists in the Senate maneuvers over the 1957 civil rights bill. Southern senators resented and denounced Nixon's show of sympathy for Negro voters.

As of now, Nixon equally with Knowland, would be likely to attract Negro votes if either were nominated by the Republicans for president in 1960. Whether Eisenhower would attract or repel Negro voters is a matter of less importance because he will not be a candidate again.

It is possible, therefore, that to say the Republicans have not made much political hay in the civil rights pasture is to overstate the case. The President may not have made much or any. Nixon and Knowland, however, may wind up with a full barn.

The Lighter Side—

Willie Mays May Cure San Francisco Drunks

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—It says right here in this paper I'm reading, "Golden Gate gets that glow from gin." And under that headline it says that a San Francisco mayor-appointed citizens' committee will hold a three-day conference this week on the problem.

The committee found, it says, that one out of every six adult San Franciscans is a problem drinker, one out of 24 a chronic alcoholic. These bottle-hitters work so steadily at it that the intake averages out to 4.57 gallons of distilled spirits a year per San Franciscan.

The foregoing are statistics cited by the committee, which is composed of the sheriff, the health director, and a psychiatrist.

A Bumper Town

The dictionary says that a bumper is a glass filled to the brim, or over and by that definition the place is a bumper town. As a longtime admirer of the beautiful city—which many consider the most charming and inspiring in the entire world—I can testify that none of this shows on the surface to the casual visitor.

The committee has not announced any approach to the problem, but it occurs to one viewing it from across the country that some measure of solution might lie in sending a lot of those tremendous tipplers to the ball park next summer.

When they see what goes on in centerfield, they'll gulp, decide that the stuff has finally got them seeing things, and swear off forever. The miracle of centerfield occurs fairly regularly on a baseball team named the Giants, which goes to San Francisco next year.

It has been recorded that a perfectly sober baseball fan, watching Willie Mays, the centerfielder, for the first time, turned to a companion and said: "I see it but I don't believe it." After all, it is hard for the mind to grasp the vision of a man running full speed catching the ball with his back to the plate and in one whirling motion reverse its direction back some 300 feet to the precise spot from which it started.

If that doesn't work, I'd suggest importing a drink from the provinces of the Philippines that can scare you not only out of drinking but out of seven years' growth. It was introduced to me as "white honey," a distillate of a drink called tuba.

A Paralyzing Drink

Tuba is a dishwater-dense drink made by fermenting the sap of the palm tree. But white honey is quite clear and drinkable. It was served by a Lt. Gen. Vera, leader of a guerrilla band which had been fighting the Japanese in World War II way out in the boondocks somewhere far south of Manila.

We sat at a ceremonial dinner in the woods with large water glasses of white honey at our plates while the general made a speech. I had nearly finished my glass when the man at my right whispered, "Be careful with that; enough of it paralyzes your legs." I immediately tried to rise. I could not budge. It was the scariest of feelings.

There is real value here. How can you have "that next drink," if you can't get up to get it?

Mrs. Paul Pihota
(Julia Monosky)

Monosky-Pihota Nuptials Solemnized at St. Nicholas

Julia Monosky, daughter of Mrs. Sophia Monosky of Monessen, became the bride of Paul Pihota in a ceremony solemnized at St. Nicholas Ukrainian Church on Sept. 1, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Pihota of Donora.

The Very Rev. Michael A. Yarosh, local pastor, assisted by the Very Rev. Harry Pypiuk, formerly pastor of St. Nicholas Church now of Bound Brook, N. J., officiated at the double ring ceremony. The church choir directed by John Bachenski sang the responses.

After the exchange of marriage vows the bride placed a bouquet of white carnations at the holy icon of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

White gladiolus and dracena palms decorated the church altar, and bows of white nylon centered with white flowers and satin streamers marked the family pews.

Wears Rosepoint

The bride's gown was styled floor length and was made of rosepoint lace and nylon tulle with a fitted bodice of lace, long pointed sleeves and a scoop neckline sprinkled with seed pearls. The bouffant skirt had inserts of lace and ended in a swirling sweep. A matching pillbox of rosepoint lace trimmed with iridescent beads and seed pearls, centered with a teardrop pearl, was fastened to a double imported veil of French illusion. The bride carried an arrangement of pink cymbidiums on a lace covered Prayer Book with lilies of the valley attached to the streamers.

The attendants, Olga Lewitsky as maid of honor, and Mrs. Elizabeth Monosky, a sister-in-law of the bride, as bridesmaid, were identically attired. They wore ballerina length rose coral chiffon gowns styled with a fitted bodice and scoop neckline outlined with crystal beads. The skirt was bouffant in fashion. They wore half crown headpieces with attached veils and carried cascade bouquets of white carnations and ivy.

Flower Girl

Mary Ellen Obitko of Roscoe, a niece and godchild of the bride was the flower girl. She wore a white nylon lace dress with an underskirt of blue taffeta. The dress was trimmed with a blue taffeta sash, and she carried a nosegay of white carnations.

John B. Welsh, a friend of the bridegroom, was best man, and usher was Michael Monosky, brother of the bride. Eugene Pypiuk acted as master of ceremonies.

Mrs. Sophia Monosky, mother of the bride, wore a beige dress with blue accessories and a corsage of red roses.

The wedding reception was held at the Sokol Hall where dinner was served. A four tiered wedding cake centered the bridal table. About 250 guests attended from New York, New Jersey, Michigan, Ohio, McKees Rocks, McKeesport, Pittsburgh, Donora, Charleroi, Belle Vernon, Elizabeth, Clairton, Boston, Port Vue, West Newton and New Eagle. Chuck Carlo and his orchestra provided music for dancing.

Following a two week honeymoon in New York the couple is at home in Monessen. The groom is employed at the American Steel and Wire Division in Donora, and the bride is employed as a clerk in the Irwin Works in Dravosburg.

Eleanor Joan Barna Feted At Pre-nuptial Shower

Honoring Eleanor Joan Barna, her grandmother, Mrs. George Kline, and aunts, Mrs. Steve Marchezak and Mrs. Fred Owsiany, Pleasant Dr., entertained recently at a pre-nuptial shower.

Miss Barna is the daughter of Michael Barna of McKeesport and the late Anna Kline Barna.

The honored guest and her grandmother received their friends and relatives. The former was wearing a bronze mum corsage with which she was presented. She also received a satin and lace covered autograph book inscribed with silver from the hostesses, and each guest present signed it.

Luncheon was served at a table centered with an arrangement of yellow mums flanked on either side by tall lighted tapers held in crystal candelabra, tall tapers and roses. Assisting the hostesses in serving were Mrs. Cyril Kline, Mrs. Emma Beneccio and Mrs. Glen Brady.

The gifts were arranged on a table lined with ivy under a silver and white sprinkling can with a backdrop of shower ribbon and wedding bells.

Games were played with prizes being awarded to Mrs. John Dyky, Mrs. Valent Talpas and Mrs. Joseph DiBuono, all of Monessen; Mrs. Robert Owsiany of Bethel, Mrs. George Coleman of Charleroi, Mrs. Michael Blagovich and Melva Jean Blagovich of McKeesport.

Approximately 40 guests attended from Monessen, Belle Vernon, Charleroi, Monongahela, and Pittsburgh.

Miss Barna will become the bride of Neil F. King, son of Mrs. Dorothy King of Glenshaw on Saturday, Oct. 5, at 9 a. m. at a nuptial mass in Holy Trinity Roman Catholic Church, Seventh St., McKeesport.

Troop 8 Girl Scouts Elect New Officers

Officers were elected at the Friday evening meeting of the members of Girl Scout Troop 8 held in the Civic Center.

Named were Norma Jean Kamenicky, president; Joan Popovich, vice president; Jane Saksun, secretary and Becky Romey, treasurer.

Taps concluded the session which was under the direction of Mrs. J. Battalia, leader and Kay Romey, assistant.

Zylpha Little Engaged to Wed Ray Cominsky

Mr. and Mrs. James Little, 103 Tenth St., Donora, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Zylpha Mae, to Ray Cominsky. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cominsky of North Charleroi.

Miss Little was graduated from Donora High School in 1951 and is presently employed at Standard Dry Wall Products in New Eagle. Her fiance was graduated from Charleroi High School with the class of 1948 and is now attending the University of Pittsburgh.

Definite wedding plans were not revealed by the couple.

Nina Rae Burd, Daniel Burkett Wed in Virginia

Announcement is being made of the marriage of Nina Rae Burd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arley Burd of Market St., Belle Vernon, to Daniel Burkett. He is the son of Mrs. Kathryn Burkett of Elks Place.

The couple exchanged nuptial vows on Monday, Sept. 16, in Winchester, Va.

The bride is a senior at Bellmar High School, and the bridegroom is employed at the O'Leary Motor Co., Belle Vernon.

The United States uses about 55 times as much oil per capita as do Asia and Africa.

'Speaking of Beauty'

"ACCEPT NO SUBSTITUTE"

By James V. Bonafed

There is no substitute for a good permanent wave! Pause a moment; consider this. A lady could use soap and water, instead of a face cream. She might buff her nails, and skip the polish. But there's just one way to put "permanent" curl and body in her hair!

-o-

Your Wave—
the foundation for beauty

No hair style—even the softest—can hold its shape without a permanent wave. Hair won't comb in the direction you want it to, hold an unwavering fashion line time after time, without a foundation of permanent waving. That's why we consider the permanent wave our most important professional service to you.

-o-

Permanents are improving constantly!

Isn't it wonderful . . . every permanent wave you get is better than the last! Manufacturers in the beauty field never stop improving permanent waves, and developing new ones. In beauty science laboratories, cosmetic chemists spend many days and months devising new formulas, testing new chemicals—devoting their skills to your beauty! That's why they're forever discovering new ways to give your hair more sheen, more "strength" beneath the softness . . . coaxing natural-looking waves into your locks . . . to last and last!

No more baked in curls!

Not so many years ago, beauty shops couldn't help leaving spilt ends, dryness, and unsightly "kinks" after a permanent wave! But how times have changed. Now the beauty salon permanent is truly pleasant—from the very beginning! It smells good! You feel good, relaxing in your chair, watching our skilled hands work lightning-fast, "positioning" every wrapped curl for the hair styling that lies ahead. And when we're finished . . . oh, the beauty of it! Softness with body . . . waves with a plan. A new gleam . . . nearly as bright as the admiration in the eyes of your "public"!

-o-

We "personalize" your permanent

This is why we consider it our duty to keep abreast of every development in the field. We train ourselves to give you the wave that's better than any other for your own hair problem, your own personal desires. We carry several kinds of waves in our salon—so we can prescribe your permanent, make it personally yours!

MHS Records in Preston's Book

Checking with Monessen High Athletic Director Evevett Pancook we find that practically any record concerning Monessen's High Schools athletic teams has been compiled in a book authored by Thomas Preston, former Monessen High athletic director . . . In fact some information on that 1930 Monessen teams which won the WPIAL title comes from Tom's files like the fact that no one scored on that Greyhound team, which had two tie games on its record, with Waynesburg and Canonsburg, both then AA schools . . . The first TD scored on that Monessen eleven came in the championship clash with Redstone at Washington Stadium when 10,000 fans saw the locals win 12-6 . . . That year Monessen defeated Charleroi 10-0, with a blocked kick by Henry Bush, now Rostraver School Board member, accounting for the TD.

Both Centerville and Bellmar High School bands were terrific in their pre-game and half-time shows Thursday night . . . They are really top-notch performers . . . The crowd at the Hurricane-Wildcat, game, by the way was very good and the stadium is in excellent shape . . . Monessen's Jayvee footballers open their season tonight against McKeesport in a 7:30 o'clock contest . . . The Monongahela-Monessen game Saturday night got quite a play around the state with UP picking it as one of the top contests of the weekend, favoring Monessen to win . . . Leonard Demalon, 235-pound St. Vincent College tackle, is considered such an outstanding professional prospect that the Baltimore Colts of the NFL drafted him last year and he won't graduate until next spring . . . He's from Elizabeth.

Good One on Pirates' Groat

Dick Groat, the Pirate shortstop who visited here Thursday night at the PONY League banquet told a good story on himself about speaking before a certain men's club about the Pirates when he was confronted with a situation where he had to pay a "fine." . . . According to Dick, he enjoyed the horseplay and didn't mind losing the buck until he found out the money collected in that manner was for a baseball trip to see the Cleveland Indians play . . . Imagine a Pittsburgh Pirate player supporting a trip for prospective Buc fans to see Cleveland in action . . . Bet he didn't tell the boss that one.

Former Monongahela High gridder Tony Bove, a Big Six honorable mention from last season, is currently in training with the U. S. Marines at Parris Island, S. C. with a group of friends from that city . . . Our buddy Lou Kichinko will soon be taking off on his annual one-month vacation trip which should be the envy of any sports lover . . . Lou has his itinerary set so that he can see baseball and football games, (both college and professional grid tilts) all along the line . . . He's going to visit with Harry Craft, the new Kansas City manager, whom Lou knew when Harry played here. Lou will also spend some time with Rev. Dan Towler, the former Donora and Los Angeles flash, now an ordained minister.

Giannini Replaces DeMillion

John "Corky" DeMillion, equipment custodian for the Greyhounds has had to give up his duties at the local Turner's Club so Bud Giannini, top-flight local gymnast, is taking over Corky's duties . . . Bud as you know has turned out some very fine volleyball teams here . . . Classes at the local Turners are held on Monday for girls and Wednesday for boys, both classes at 6:30 o'clock . . . Both Corky and Bud are top-flight volley-ballers by the way, DeMillion has coached the High School team here to a state championship . . . His precise way of doing things is reflected in the neatness around the dressing rooms of the 'Hound gridders.

Today's Sports Parade—

'Old Timers' Take Play Away From Youngsters

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK, (UP)—If you see us old guys striding along kind of perky today it's because in the sporting world, where the premium is supposed to be on youth, father time and three of his friends seem to be walking backwards.

They would be:

Casey (You're only as old as you feel) Stengel.

Fred (Never contradict your elders) Haney.

Archie (Age before beauty) Moore.

And all the evidence isn't in yet. Because the way things are going, sometime tonight Ray (Children should be seen, not heard) Robinson figures in our creaking set to give a lesson in fistic manners to a sprout named Carmen Basilio.

Moore, who admits to 41, started off "Old Man's Week" by stashing away 22-year-old Tony Anthony on Friday night to retain his world light heavyweight championship. It was, as they say in the first inning, only the beginning.

Corks Can Pop

Because tonight there can be champagne corks popping all around Stengel, Haney and Robinson. In the case of the first two gents, the celebration may have to be delayed a day or so, but ultimate triumph is as sure as rain during your vacation.

Stengel, who pulls the strings on a group known as the New York Yankees, could sit idly by and have the American League championship drop in his lap tonight or tomorrow. His second platoon—known as the Kansas City Athletics—can do this little chore by beating the second-place Chicago White Sox.

Otherwise, Case will wind it up for himself Wednesday against the Baltimore Orioles. At that time one of his "kids," 40-year-old Sal Maglie should be ready. Old Sal, who hobbled over from Brooklyn, already has won two and saved three and given all the youngsters on the staff time to rest.

This is the eighth pennant in nine years for the 66-year-old Stengel. But Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox couldn't hardly have been expected to beat him. After all, Al's only 49.

Haney Has Edge

Over in the National League, Haney's Milwaukee Braves can wind it up tonight by defeating the second-place St. Louis Cardinals. Needing only to win one in the three - game series, the Braves would seem to be "in" as easily as Old Fearless usually puts his foot in his mouth.

Yet Fred Hutchinson of the St. Louis Cardinals shouldn't be criticized. This week, he's a dead duck. Hutch is hardly past 38. Haney has a tremendous edge the way things are going because he's 59.

The "Youth Will Tell" brigade is betting most of its chips on Basilio tonight as he tries to knock the middleweight crown off Robinson's elderly brow. Save your money, kids, the die is cast and us old guys are on the march. How can Basilio, only 30, hope to contend with a man seven or possibly eight years older?

Truth be known, it isn't all fish and chips in the rheumatism crowd. Satchel Paige tried to celebrate his 49th birthday yesterday by pitching Miami to victory over Buffalo in the International League Playoffs. He lost.

But let's be fair. Satch, the only man alive who is 49 going on 59, had a 10-8 record this season, had a 2.50 earned run average for 119 innings on a fourth place club—and was pitching with only three days rest.

We're right proud of you, Satch. And to Stengel, Haney and Robinson, us other oldsters have only this to say:

Full speed ahead -- and damn the toupee-does!

Monessen Cops Big 5 Opener, 20-7

'Hounds Rally to Stop Monongahela; Bronson Gets Two

Monessen High School's Greyhound gridders, shocked by a Monongahela touchdown in the first two minutes of play following a Monessen fumble, roared back to take a 20-7 decision in the Big Five Conference opener at Monongahela Saturday night.

Playing before an estimated crowd of 4,500, the locals started off on the wrong foot when Ken Bronson fumbled the opening kickoff after running it back to the Monessen 19. Tackle Bill Hyatt of Monongahela fell on the ball at that point and the Wildcats banged away at the Monessen line until Mike McCurdy finally crashed through for the touchdown. Milton Diaz, 'Cat fullback, kicked the extra point and Monongahela led, 7-0.

Hounds Come Back

It didn't take the Niccolaimen long to even the count following the ensuing kickoff as they drove 68 yards to tie the score on a 20-yard dash by quarterback Dan Barton. The run when he could see no receivers on a pass pattern, being the key play in the drive. Halfback Joe Karbowsky's 12-yard jaunt practically set up Carl Rattary's plunge for the score two plays later.

Apparently learning a lesson from the opening tilt with Windber, when they couldn't "buy" an extra point, the Greyhounds came up with a placement kicker in Wendell Osborne, a guard who sent the ball through the uprights for the 7-7 count.

Monongahela's generosity gave the locals a second touchdown a short while later when Jim Penrod, Wildcat halfback fumbled the ensuing kickoff and Terry Throop fell on it on the Monongahela 30. Bronson more than made up for his opening miscue when, after he failed to gain off guard, swept around right end and went all the way for a second Monessen score with just one second left in the first quarter. Osborne again added the point after placement for a 14-7 tally.

That was all the scoring until the fourth quarter although the locals made several other attempts and Monongahela saw a couple of scoring chances go awry, all due to fumbles.

Once in the second period when Monessen had driven to two straight first downs on the Monongahela 36, Rattay fumbled and Penrod recovered for Monongahela only to have Jim Robertson bobble it right back with Bob Pauline, Hound guard falling on the ball.

The Greyhounds kept driving to the Monongahela 25 but gave up the ball on downs. The Wildcats started a drive to open the second half which Joe Karbowsky stymied with a pass interception. This maneuver almost set up another Monessen score but a fumble on the Wildcat nine stopped the locals.

Short Punt Helps

A short punt gave Monessen the ball on Monongahela's 40-yard line from where Karbowsky, Rattay, and Bronson alternated carrying until Bronson went over from one - half yard out. Osborne's extra point try was wide and the final count of 20-7 was posted. Bronson thrilled the crowd a minute before the touchdown when he fumbled the ball, picked it up on the nine and reversed his field to carry to the half-yard spot.

Bob Johnson, one-half of Monongahela's twin backfielders of Bob and Bill, returned the kickoff following the final Monessen score for 40-yards, aided by a terrific block by Tracey Robertson.

After Paul Tobacco stole the ball from Johnson (Bob) on the 20, Monongahela quickly got it back with 30 seconds to play on a fumble and made its way to Monessen's four-yard line from where a "sneak" failed to tally just as the game ended. A Robertson brother pass, Jim to Tracey, netted 34 of the yards in Monongahela's desparate last-ditch drive.

First downs favored Monessen, 13-7, the 'Hounds gaining 241 yards to Monongahela's 9-9 rushing.

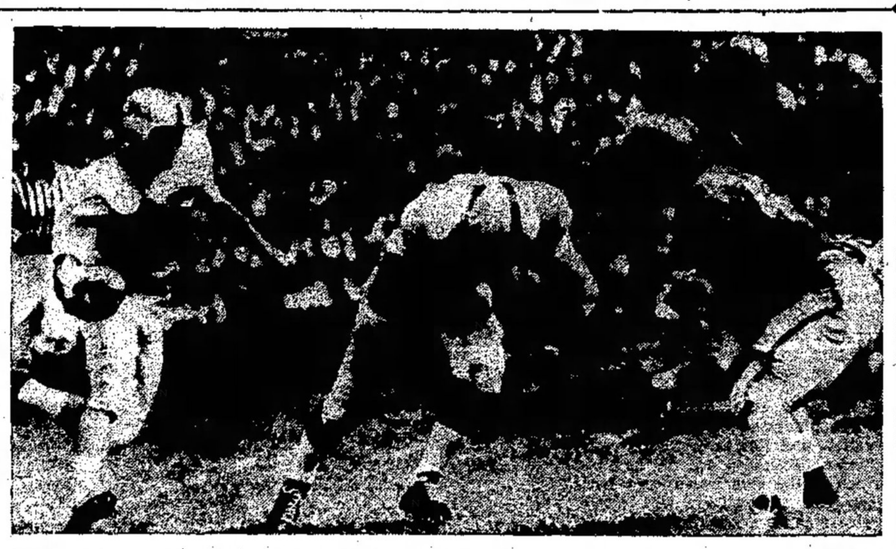
Jayvee Tilt Key To Ticket Sale

Season tickets for Monessen games will be sold tomorrow night if the Junior Varsity game with McKeesport is played here tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

The next two nights (tomorrow night and Wednesday night) reserved seat tickets for the Uniontown game here Friday will be sold.

If tonight's Jayvee tilt is postponed the tickets will be sold tonight and tomorrow night.



OKLAHOMA TROUNCES PITT: 26-TO-0 — Glendon Thomas (35) of Oklahoma goes around right end for a gain against Pitt in the first quarter, as the "pigskin parade" got underway Saturday. Oklahoma, the nation's No. 1 team made it 41 games without defeat by swarming over a heavier Pitt team for a 26-to-0 victory before a crowd of 58,942 at Pittsburgh.

Rostraver Coach Issues Statement Over 'Incident'

Football Coach Wade Bender, of Rostraver High School, issued a statement this morning after a meeting with school officials over the alleged "incident" following Friday night's Rostraver-West Newton game when some Rostraver players started to walk to Rostraver High School from the Stadium.

It was reported that the players had been forced to walk as a disciplinary action for losing the game and were not given access to the bus.

Bender stated today that "the rumor of disciplinary action is absolutely false. The boys took it upon themselves to walk, claiming they did not deserve to ride after losing the game." Bender further explained that when he learned the players were not on the bus, he and his assistants boarded the bus and started in search for the players, finding all but a few who had taken short cuts off the highway and were picked up by passing motorists.

There was definitely no disciplinary action involved," Bender added, "and no one was more surprised than I when I learned what the boys had done."

Steelers Given Day Off; New Cuts Expected

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Coach Buddy Parker gave his Pittsburgh Steelers the day off today while he and his staff decide whom to cut from the roster to reach the National Football League maximum of 35 players.

The Steelers, who scored something of a moral victory in their 10-10 battle with the Green Bay Packers Saturday night, will resume practice until Tuesday morning. They meet the Washington Redskins at Forbes Field Sunday in their NFL opener.

The tie with Green Bay proved costly as the Steelers lost three top-flight players for an indefinite period. End Jim Freeman and Fullback Dale Atkeson must undergo surgery at Mercy Hospital, while halfback Sid Watson is out with a dislocated elbow.

A piece of bone will be removed from Freeman's elbow. Atkeson suffered a ruptured Achilles tendon, similar to the injury which forced Steeler punter Pat Brady to retire from the game two years ago.

Halfbacks Harland Carl and Dick Young also suffered leg injuries of a less serious nature. Both were expected to be available for the Redskin game.

Tuesday is the NFL deadline for reducing teams to the 35 player limit.

Bears, Rams Win In Fence Loop

Field Fence Bowling yesterday afternoon featured two near-500 totals for three games with George Papontanakis and Bill Doyle rolling 499s. Papontanakis also had a single game total of 213.

Other top scorers were B. Viviani, I. Picchiarinni, Mike Buchuchin and Nick Mascetta.

The Bears topped the Eagles and the Rams blanked the Hawks in the games action.

Standings — Bears 5-1, Eagles 4-2, Rams 3-3, Hawks 0-6.

Roscoe, Avella in 2-2 Soccer Tilt

AVELLA, Sept. 23 — Avella and Roscoe soccer team battled a 2-2 tie in an exhibition soccer game here yesterday.

Jack Bailey scored both Roscoe goals in the first half on a kick from the right deflected by an Avella player and a cross shot.

Cougars Try Again Tonight at 9 o'clock; Redstone Wins, 14-7

One Big Six entry swings into action tonight in a postponed tilt with Charleroi battling Allegheny of Pittsburgh in a game originally scheduled for Friday night. The Cougars won their opener, 47-0, from Oliver.

When rains stopped the contest Friday it was moved ahead to tonight at 8 o'clock, a much later-than-usual starting time to aid the merchants who must remain open until that hour.

Meanwhile, former Mon Valley Conference (Big Six now Big Five) member School Redstone High turned back Woodrow Wilson of Cleveland, O., 14-7 at home Saturday night.

The Blackhawks scored in the first quarter and then held on until Youngstown knotted the count at 7-7 in the fourth quarter.

Fumble Break for 'Hawks'

A Woodrow Wilson fumble gave Redstone the ball on the visitor's 23 late on the fourth period and Ralph Grooms, big 'Hawk backfielder took several cracks at the line before going over to score with Grooms also plunging for the conversion.

Lou DiSimone, another 'Hawk backfield ace, streaked 21 yards to the first period score.

Several other western Pennsylvania games are being played tonight following last Friday's postponements. They have Springdale at Aspinwall, Braddock at Homestead, Verona at Edgewood, Oakmont at Rankin, Carnegie at McKees Rocks and Allderdice at Munhall.

Score by Periods:

Youngstown	0	0	0	7	7
Redstone	7	0	0	7	14

Touchdown: L. DeSimone, Grooms, Menighan.

Extra Points: Grooms 2 (runs), Menighan (run).

Officials: Disey Simon, Ray Renninger, John Migyanko.

Early Season HS Elevens Fading Before Underdogs

By BURTON W. SIGLIN

Some of the glitter gilding early season favorites on the Pennsylvania schoolboy grid scene began to fade over the weekend as underdogs refused to believe their opponents' press clippings.

Left in the dust of aroused less-favored teams were such stalwarts as New Castle, Windber, Tamaqua, Shamokin and Bethlehem.

New Castle had been touted as a top contender for WPIAL honors but Ambridge, which went unbeaten last season, pulled the rug out and upended speculation with a 14-0 victory.

Windber's victory over Monessen last week seemed to be the tip-off on a powerhouse—but not to Altoona, which took them, 19-7.

Early season predictions had Tamaqua looking for a conference title in the East Penn. Mt. Carmel's 38-7 pasting brought the Schuylkill County team back to earth.

Shamokin's seven-game winning string, including an opening victory over Milton, Susquehanna League titleholders, went down the drain at the hands of Danville's Ironmen, 24-7.

And Bethlehem, a perennial contender for top honors in the schoolboy grid world, ran into a rude 18-6 jolting when the Hurricanes ventured against Baltimore Polytechnic.

Bad weather last Friday night forced postponement of a flock of contests which were rescheduled for this week.

Good Prospects

Among the early-season contenders for conference honors, these appeared the best bets for the moment:

Jeannette — defending WPIAL king—which continued its winning ways by dumping Pittsburgh Schenley, 20-6; Allentown—Always one of the best teams in the East—which racked up Scranton Central, 34-7; Jersey Shore, which bared its teeth with a 21-7 crushing of Clearfield; Williamsport—continuing its sway over the Central Penn Conference with a 21-7 swatting of always top-grade Steelton; Carlisle—upholding early season reports in its opener by grinding under Chief Logan, 40-6; Lewistown—stamping itself a top threat in the West Penn by running over Bellefonte, 34-0.

Knocking out the postponed games, the week's chart showed 24 correct selections against nine on the wrong side and two ties for a percentage of .727.

About seven out of every ten passenger motor cars in the world are produced in the U. S.

Panthers Face Rough Week of Pratice Drills

PITTSBURGH (UP) — The University of Pittsburgh Panthers, trounced by the Oklahoma Sooners, face a long week of practice if the rough spots are to be honed down to expectations.

The Sooners, finding the Panthers weak in nearly every department of play, had their own way as they romped to an easy 26-0 victory at Pitt Stadium Saturday. But Pitt fans can gain some solace in the fact that the Panthers have been known to come back.

The 1955 team was routed by Navy, 21-0, but came back to play in the Sugar Bowl. Last season, Pitt dropped its opener to California, 14-0, but gained enough momentum as the season wore on to wind up in the Gator Bowl.

The Panthers fly to the West Coast Thursday morning. They meet Oregon in Portland Saturday night and the following Friday night they take on Southern California in Los Angeles.

Coach Johnny Michelosen still believes he has a good ball club. He does not expect the Oklahoma loss to cause a let down against Oregon.

"Not if they have any red blood they won't," he said.

South, West Win Ball-Chain Openers

Opening night action in the Ball and Chain Bowling League at the Grand Parlors Alleys last night saw the South and West post wins over the East and North, blanking both of the latter teams.

Ray Echart posted a three-game high of 492 for the men, Vilma Harrison had a 412 for the women. Frank Rubachko had a 480 for the second top men's score while Jean Thieser showed a 383 for the women. Other top scorers were Mike Adamio, Ray Calderone, Arlene Echart and Vi Slebodnik.

Standings — South 3-0, West 3-0, East 0-3, North. 0-3.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

Reduced Shots

We can't go into all types of reduced shots in today's lesson, but I have one point that applies to all of them. If it's violated, you'll be just plain lucky if you get a good shot.

Your follow-through on a reduced shot — one taken without a full backswing — should be of at least equal length to your backswing. Most players will take a long backswing on a half shot, then shorten the follow-through or "stop."

They couldn't be more wrong if they tried.

Today's player is making a reduced shot with a medium iron for a shorter distance than you could usually get with this iron. He has choked his grip on the shaft.

The important thing to remember is to shorten your backswing and make the follow-through at least as long on reduced shots of this sort.

Zofko Shoots 72 For Low Honors In MVCC Golf

John Zofko won low gross honors at Monongahela Country Club yesterday by posting a 36-36—72 round. W. H. Sharp captured Saturday laurels with 42-40—82.

Saturday "kicker" scores were: J. W. Pregendo, 100-20—80; Ted Szychalski, 87-7—80; J. McHugh, 100-16—84; M. Rogers, 93-9—84; W. H. Sharp, 82-10—72; Dr. J. A. Hutchinson, 90-18—72; W.K. Gray, 88-14—74; George Roule, 86-12—74; William Robinson, 94-20—74.

Sunday "kicker" results were as follows: William Hart, 91-7—84; C. R. McConnell, 87-6—81; Dr. H. Underwood, 88-5—83; A. Miale, 95-12—83; Sam Velmer, 82-5—77; Tom Johnson, 82-5—77; John Brazack, 82-5—77; A. Wagner, 86-9—77; Frank Novosielski, 88-14—74; Ed Betus, 74-0—74; R. Arentzen, 84-10—74.

A tri-amateur tournament will be held a the club next Sunday.

Tokar, Reilly Low At Nemacolin CC

Andy Tokar and Dr. William Reilly shot 75s yesterday to share low gross honors at Nemacolin Country Club. Wilson Reid fired Saturday's low score of 77.

May Row Together

ITHACA, N.Y., (UP) — Some members of the Cornell University crew which won three straight I.R.A. regattas, the Henley regatta, and the International Championship may row together this year as a graduate crew, it was announced today.

Danny Murtaugh to Pilot Bucs Again For 1958 Season

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Danny Murtaugh, the chipper Irishman who took over as "interim"-manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates when Bobby Bragan was fired, will pilot the team next season, it was announced today.

Terms of the one-year pact were not revealed.

In announcing the appointment, General Manager Joe L. Brown said Murtaugh has handled the club "exceedingly well" since he took over.

"In all candor, when I announced his interim appointment, I was not sure he would be the manager next year," Brown said. "But he has shown me that he has the ability to handle ballplayers and can get the best out of them.

"When I informed Danny last month that he was to be an interim manager, he told me: 'Don't worry, Joe. I'm a better manager than you think.' "

Murtaugh said he will run the team from the bench.

"I want to be a bench manager because I think you can direct the team better from that point than on the coaching line," he said.

Murtaugh needs only one more victory for a .500 showing in the 49 games he has directed the team since the dramatic dismissal of Bragan in Chicago last Aug. 3.

A former Pirate second baseman, Murtaugh is the first alumnus to manage the team since Pie Traynor took over the reins in the middle of the 1934 season.

Murtaugh joined the Pirates as a player in 1948 and teamed up with shortstop Stan Rojek for a double play combination that helped the team finish fourth. It was the last time the Pirates finished in the first division.

Murtaugh, who will be 40 Oct. 8, was born in Chester, Pa., where he still maintains his residence. He broke into the big leagues with the Philadelphia Phils in 1941. In 1947, he was traded to the Boston Braves and the following season began a three year hitch with the Pirates. He embarked upon a managerial career in 1952 with New Orleans of the Southern Association and led the Pelicans to a second place finish in 1954 after finishing fifth the previous two seasons.

In 1955, Murtaugh managed Charleston (W. Va.) in the American Association but resigned in July with the team in eighth place and in financial straits. The Pirates signed him to manage their Williamsport (Pa.) farm club in the Eastern League for 1956 but switched him to coach the parent team when Bragan took charge of the Pirates that season.

Packers Surprise Team of NFL's 'Grapefruit Loop'

By JOHN GRIFFIN

The Green Bay Packers, only unbeaten team in the circuit, were crowned the surprise champions of pro football's "Grapefruit league" today, thanks to a clutch touchdown pass by former Alabama star Bart Sarr.

The packers worst defensive team in the national football league last season, woundup with a record of five wins and one tie in six exhibition games, pressed by Los Angeles and San Francisco at 5-1-0.

Starr kept the Green Bay record unsullied when he tossed a 16-yard T.D. pass in the last minute of play Saturday night to gain a 10-10 tie with the Pittsburgh Steelers at Minneapolis. Starr connected with Joe Johnson who ran the last six yards.

In another Saturday night game, the Chicago Cardinals beat Baltimore, 28-21. In two games Sunday, the San Francisco Forty - Niners won a punch-filled battle from the Philadelphia Eagles, 17-14, and the world champion New York Giants throttled the Detroit Lions, 17-0.

At Minneapolis Saturday, Pittsburgh scored all its points in the second period on a one-yard touchdown punge by Fran Rogel and a 23-yard field goal by Gary Glick. Fred Cone of the packers cut the margin to 10-3 with a 35-field goal with 15 seconds left in the first half and things stayed that way until Starr's winning toss.

Pitt's 26-0 Lacing Highlights State's Football Openers

By UNITED PRESS

Pitsburgh, rated one of the top teams of the east in pre-season appraisal took a 26-0 lacing from the Oklahoma Sooners during the first big weekend of football in Pennsylvania.

Oklahoma, the No. 1 team in the nation, pushed across one quick touchdown in the second period and added three more in the third before a sellout crowd of nearly 59,000 at Pittsburgh. The Panthers made only two threats, one going to the Oklahoma 19 and the other to the 16.

Villanova, another top Pennsylvania team in the pre - season ratings, lost to Baylor's Sugar Bowl champions, 7-0, but nearly tied the score with a final period drive that died on the three. Baylor's score came when Dick Clark crashed over from the one after Villanova fumbled on the 28.

In other games, Bucknell beat Albright, 16-0; Lock Haven downed Bloomsburg, 13-6; Dennison defeated California Teachers, 44-13; Edinboro blanked Clarion, 36-0; Millersville trounced East Stroudsburg, 27-0; Musgingum defeated Geneva, 13-6.

Ohio U. blasted Indiana Teachers, 50-0; Kutztown beat Kings, 6-0; Shippensburg tied with New Haven State, 6-6; St. Vincent's defeated Thiel, 10-7; West Chester downed Fort Myer, 25-7; West Liberty lost to Glenville, 2-6, and Hofstra blanked Wilkes, 14-0.

Pirates End '57 Home Season With Victory

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates ended their season at Forbes Field on a sweet note Sunday by handing the New York Giants a 5-1 setback, enabling Bob Friend to notch his 13th victory.

Friend, who scattered nine hits in the finale, thus opened and closed the Pirate home season with victories over the Giants. On April 16th he allowed the Giants 10 hits but emerged with a 9-2 victory.

The Pirates move to Brooklyn Tuesday where they face the Dodgers in a night game.

The Pirates came up with three unearned runs in the first inning off Ramon Monzant who was charged with his second defeat. They added another unearned run in the seventh.

Bill Mazeroski and Roberto Clemente hit back to back singles in the eighth inning to drive Jim Constable, who had relieved Monzant, from the mound. Marv Grissom came on and Mazeroski scored on Harding Peterson's sacrifice fly.

Friend, who struck out six, lost his shutout in the sixth inning on a double play by Ray Jablonski, a single by Daryl Spencer and Hank Sauer's pinch single.

Basilio Solid 3-2 Favorite in Title Go With Sugar Tonight

NEW YORK, (UP) — Welterweight champion Carmen Basilio is a solid 3-2 favorite to wrest the middleweight crown from Sugar Ray Robinson tonight in their modernistic ring spectacular at Yankee stadium.

Anticipated late support for 37-year-old Sugar Ray failed to materialize before weigh-in time today.

Despite the smaller stadium crowd, tonight's scheduled 15-rounder at 10:30 p.m. (e.d.t.) will be witnessed by more paying spectators than any previous attraction in history—sports or otherwise. Through the help of electronics, the fight will be shown on screens in 178 theatres in 135 cities in the United States and Canada, with more than 510,000 seats available. Sale of those seats could approximate $1,800,000.

The battle of champions between slender, debonair Robinson, 37, and raw-boned, fist-scarred Basilio, 30-year-old ruler of the welterweight division, will not be televised to homes. But will be sent to homes by radio (NBC) in the United States, Canada, Hawaii and some Latin American countries.

Thanks to theatre-TV tonight's bout will be the richest in the careers of Robinson, the flamboyant New Yorker, and Basilio of Chittenango, N.Y., the somewhat shy son of an onion farmer.

The betting, in which Basilio has been favored ever since the match was signed on June 28, apparently was more affected by Carmen's seven-year edge in youth than by Robinson's weight advantage of approximately five pounds.

Carmen, who marches forward persistently—bobbing and weaving—knocked out 25 of the 70 men he met since he turned professional nine years ago. He won 51 bouts, lost 12 and had seven draws. He twice won the welterweight (147-pound) title, most recently on a ninth-round knockout over Johnny Saxton, Sept. 12, 1956.

Sugar Ray, who holds the record for winning the middleweight (160-pound) crown four times, will be making his first defense since he recaptured it from Gene Fullmer on a fifth-round knockout at Chicago last May 1.

Today Seen as Final Day in '57 Major League Flag Competition

By CONNIE RYAN

This may be the last day of the 1957 major league pennant races—if Milwaukee and Kansas City win tonight, the final six days are simply for the formal records.

The New York Yankees, Chicago White Sox, Milwaukee Braves and St. Louis Cardinals all won single games Sunday, so the Yanks clinched at least a tie for the American League pennant, while the Braves held a five-game lead over the Cards with six games to go—and the Cards run into the Braves in a decisive three-game series starting tonight.

Yankees Need One

The Yankees, who are idle the next two days, need win only one game or the White Sox need lose only one to settle the AL flag. The Chisox play at Kansas City tonight and the Athletics, who strongly resent being called the Yankee "farm club," can win it for the Yanks by downing the Chicagoans.

Manager Fred Hutchinson named lefty Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell, who has won eight and lost 10, as the Cardinal starter in this "must-win" series from the Card point of view. The Braves, with a six-game winning streak and confident they will win their first flag since coming to the midwest from Boston, named Lew Burdette (16-9) as their starter.

A'S Win Fourth

In yesterday's games, the Yanks beat Boston 5-1, when Red Sox pitchers walked four runs home in the sixth inning; the White Sox stayed "alive" by taking Cleveland, 9-5; Baltimore defeated Washington, 6-5; and Kansas City ran its winning streak to four straight by beating Detroit twice, 4-3 and 2-1.

Milwaukee went 10 innings to beat the pesky Chicago Cubs, 9-7; the tenacious Cards came from behind to trip the Cincinnati Reds, 7-5; Brooklyn beat the Phillies, 7-3; and Pittsburgh happily accepted four unearned runs to defeat the New York Giants, 5-1.

Powerful Okies Rest While Five Big 10ers Start

By FRANK LITSKY

The national champions from Oklahoma, already past possibly their biggest hurdle of the football season, relax this week while five powerhouses from the Big Ten make their 1957 debut and take up the chase.

Oklahoma rolled over Pittsburgh, 26-0, Saturday for its 41st straight victory with a typical blow-'em-down Sooner attack. Oklahoma's swift backs ran for 310 yards and three of the four passes they completed went for touchdowns in the outstanding game of the first collegiate week end of the fall.

Now, with the Sooners idle until an Oct. 5 meeting with Iowa State, attention turns to the Big Ten, the traditional area of football strength which should be tougher than ever this year.

Big Ten Opens

Making their bow on Saturday are Michigan, Michigan State, Minnesota, Ohio State, and the Rose Bowl champions from Iowa. All meet intersectional foes except Michigan State, which plays host to Indiana in the conference opener.

Michigan, a veteran team with depth to spare, plays Southern California, which took a 20-0 drubbing from conference champion Oregon State on Saturday. Minnesota, strong at every position except halfback, faces Washington, which played a 6-6 tie with Colorado.

Ohio State takes on Texas Christian, which had to settle for a 13-13 tie when Kansas connected on a touchdown pass in the last second of play. Iowa, ineligible to return to the Rose Bowl this season, gets the only breather of the lot, a Utah State team which beat Hawaii two weeks ago and has been idle since.

McKeiver Featured

The nationally-televised game of the week brings together Stanford, a 46-7 winner over often pesty San Jose State, and Northwestern, which features breakway halfback Bob McKeiver, all five feet, four inches and 158 pounds of him, and little else.

The three major conferences in the South feature games which may go a long way toward crowning champions. Tennessee, the pre-season favorite in the Southeastern Conference, tests its single-wing power against dangerous Auburn in the curtain-raiser for each.

Duke, more than ever the Atlantic Coast Conference standout after a 26-14 win over South Carolina, runs into Virginia, which held West Virginia to a 6-6 tie. West Virginia, defending its Southern Conference laurels, should get an acid test from Virginia Tech, a rising power which upset Tulane, 14-13, Friday night.

Leader to Ask For Abandoned Military Sites

ALDEN HOUSE, N.Y. (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader of Pennsylvania plans to ask the federal government to turn over former military and naval installations, now in disuse, to help in the prevention of juvenile delinquency.

The move was approved by five eastern state governors and a number of mayors, including Mayor George E Brunner, of Camden, at a regional conference on metropolitan areas here yesterday.

The abandoned sites would be made into summer camps for boys in an effort to stem the tide of delinquency and to build better citizens.

The camp plan would be financed jointly by the federal and state governments with help of local areas served. The camps would be staffed by skilled personnel and selections of boys would be made by the local school system.

'POSTMAN OF YEAR' — Boyd Montgomery, 27, a Louisville, Ky., mail carrier, is ready to go about his rounds again after he received the "Postman of the Year" award in Chicago. The bowl was presented to him for saving an 18-month-old baby from drowning in August, 1956.

Predicts Wave Of New Products To Help Business

WASHINGTON (UP) — Small business administrator Wendell Barnes today predicted a wave of new products will account for most of the nation's industrial growth during the next six years.

Barnes said research for new products and processes is "an absolute must" for the nation's four million small businesses—"the key to their continued success"

The small business administrator's speech was prepared for delivery at a luncheon opening the presidential conference on technical and distribution research for the benefit of small business More than 1,000 leaders of small business, government, universities, trade associations and the business press were expected to attend the three-day conference—first of its kind ever held.

Two Important Dates Are Now Approaching for State Farmers

By UNITED PRESS

Two important dates are approaching for the Pennsylvania farmer. The first is next Monday — Sept. 30 — the deadline for the filing of liquid fuel tax refunds and the second is the following day — Oct. 1 — the deadline for entries for the November Livestock Exposition at the Farm Show Building in Harrisburg.

Farmers may not delay filing their claims for refunds for the federal gasoline taxes for fuel used on the farm.

It has been pointed out time and again that the claim form No. 2040 may be obtained at County Agricultural Extension offices, at post offices, at many banks, and at the local offices of the Internal Revenue Bureau service.

The claims for tax refunds on fuels used for farm purposes for the 12 month period ended last June 30 must be at the revenue office no later than next Monday Claims must be received on or before that date — not merely mailed before that date.

One more note — refunds for gasoline purchased after June 30, 1956, may be claimed at the rate of 3 cents a gallon, the federal tax.

Claims may be filed at the Philadelphia, Scranton or Pittsburgh district offices of the revenue bureau.

Livestock

The Pennsylvania Livestock Exposition, scheduled for the Farm Show Building Nov. 12-16, created more interest than any event in a long, long time.

Leon Falk Jr., of Pittsburgh, president of the Pennsylvania Livestock Industries Association, Inc., reported that the exposition will include entries of registered stock from the principal livestock areas of the United States and Canada.

The Association is sponsor of the exposition in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Once again though, farmers must be reminded that the deadline for entries competing for the $75,000 in premiums is Tuesday, Oct. 1.

The major object of the exposition, according to Falk, is the improvement of herds and flocks by providing an outstanding opportunity for the exhibition competition and sale of high quality cattle, swine and sheep.

Prizes

The premium breakdown shows $52,000 in awards in the beef cattle classes, $10,000 for sheep and $12,000 for swine.

Falk pointed out that not only are valuable premiums at stake, bu that the exposition also will give breeders, feeders, processors, suppliers and consumers the opportunity to meet, compare notes and exchange ideas.

The Pennsylvania farmer has a big stake in the show and as of today, has just one week to meet the entry deadline.

Pampered Chicks Known by Names

NEW ORLEANS (UP) — Two pampered chicks who represent the diminishing whooping crane's best hope of escaping extinction finally are known by names instead of numbers.

The two were named George and Georgette after officials at the New Orleans Audubon Park Zoo, where they were hatched four months ago. The two little whoopers are among only seven such birds in captivity.

Legion Auxiliary Officers in Last Meeting of Club Year

Mrs. Inez Lehew, retiring president, conducted her final meeting of Belle Vernon American Legion Auxiliary to Post 659 on Friday evening in the club room of the Post Home. Mrs. Mary Ferrari, who was recently installed as president for the coming year, along with her officers, will assume their duties at the October meeting.

Colors were advanced by Mary Bashada, sergeant at arms and Mrs. Lehew led the group in the pledge to the flag and singing of America. Prayer was offered by Ann Lucas, acting chaplain.

Olive Palfrey, Child Welfare chairman, reported on the unit's efforts in aiding a retarded local child and Bertha MacDonald gave a report on cards sent to ill members during the summer months.

Ways and means chairman Emma Jarvis reported on card parties sponsored by the unit recently for the Salvation Army, Girl Scouts and Vernon Parent Teacher Association in conjunction with the Community Service program. Weekly affairs will continue to be held by the unit each Thursday evening and Mrs. Ferrari was named chairman for the next month.

Announcement was made by Dorothy Cefala, Junior chairman, that the first fall meeting will be held on Friday evening this week at 7 o'clock.

A report on the State Convention held in Harrisburg in August was given by Mrs. Lehew.

To Attend Conference

It was voted to send Mrs. Ferrari and Mrs. Bertha Arn, secretary, to the conference to be held in Harrisburg in October.

Announcement was made that the unit had merited a citation for unit activities during the past year and was also presented a monetary award for the unit with a membership of more than 100 having the most publicity.

Appointed to serve on the auditing committee were Alice Ventura, Bertha Arn, Myra Dohan and Margaret Franceschi.

Mrs. Lehew was presented with a past president's ring, a gift from the unit. The presentation was made by Mrs. Arn. Mrs. Lehew thanked all members for their cooperation during her tenure of office.

During the social hour that followed refreshments were served. The birthday table held a decorated cake and those honored were Mrs. Ferrari, Margaret Franceschi, Mary Kissler, Edith Laratta, Lillie Wells, Mrs. Arn, Rose Beazell and Edith Thot.

The guest prize was awarded to Ann Sarnowski.

Barry Kaye at Marion Canteen Dance Tomorrow

Pittsburgh disc jockey Barry Kaye will present the first special dance of the year at Marion Junior High School canteen tomorrow evening. Dancing will be for both junior high and high school students, and hours will be from 8 p.m. until 11 p.m.

The dance will be sponosred by the Washington Township Parent Teacher Association as are all of the weekly canteen dances.

Last Friday 74 students attended and dancing was to recorded music. The dance was for 10th, 11th and 12th grade students.

Prize winners were Toni DeMarco, John Kasuda and Beverly Sadowsky.

Robert Hartsock was the disc jockey. Serving as counselors were Mrs. Ella Liptrot, Mrs. Zella Britton, Mrs. Mildred Koslasky, Mrs. Mary Rhoades, Mrs. Pauline Buchton, Mrs. Mary Wysochansky nad John Stump.

Sparkle Nine Club Meeting

Mrs. Bertha Forsberg was hostess to members of the Sparkle Nine Club at her home on Water St. Thursday evening.

Cards were in play and the prize winners were Jean Brazack, Bertha Forsberg, Jennie Lehew and Clarice Cavannaugh.

Winner of the special awards were Helen Adams and Gladys Bakewell.

The club members presented the hostess with a gift. The evening concluded with the serving of luncheon.

Mrs. Adams, Broad Ave., will be next hostess.

Women's Society to Hold Installation

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church will begin the fall and winter season on Wednesday evening. There will be a pot luck supper in the church social rooms at 6:30 p.m.

During the business session the installation of officers will be conducted.

Guest speaker will be Mrs. H.B. Mansell, wife of a former local pastor, who will tell of life at the Methodist Home for the Aged. Lesson leader will be Mrs. Myrtle Gaul.

Hostesses will be Elizabeth Roley, Mrs. George Ventura and Frances Lowman.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crow of Main St. have received word that their son, Master Sgt. Jimmie Crow is recovering after undergoing surgery at St. Alban's Hospital, Long Island, N. Y. He is stationed with the air force at Stewart Air Base, Newburg, N.Y.

Mrs. Jennie Lehew has returned to her home in Lynnwood after visiting relatives in Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

Library Board Hears Reports Here Thursday

The September meeting of the Board of Directors of the Belle Vernon Library Association met in the library on Thursday evening at 8:15.

Since there was no August meeting summer reports were given.

Those attending were: Dr. Samuel J. Wells, president; Mrs. Thomas Wilkinson, secretary; Mrs. James Wilson, treasurer; Mrs. Donald Pender, librarian; Mrs. Shelby Ferguson representing the Tuesday Evening Civic Club; Mrs. Leonard Glasgow, Clifford Dickson, Mrs. John Owen and Mrs. Charles Steele.

Mrs. Pender reported that the re-registration of borrowers has been in effect since June 1. There have been 334 borrowers register since that date. She also announced that the library had received 242 new books over June, July and August. There were 126 given by donation, 103 by purchase, 8 memorials and 5 rentals.

The board voted to purchase a typewriter for the library.

Mrs. Pender announced that the annual conference of the Pennsylvania Library Association will be held at Bedford Springs Hotel, Oct. 10, 11 and 12. It was agreed to pay the librarian's expenses to this conference.

Dickson, co-chairman of the budget committee, presented the annual budget, which was approved by the board. Expenses currently required to maintain the library include: salaries, insurance, supplies, maintainance, equipment, books and utilities.

In order to meet the financial requirements on a minimum basis, the board will probably have to arrange another drive in 1958.

Ladies Guild Plans Party

A meeting was held on Friday by members of the committee in charge of the October card party to be held by the Ladies Guild of St. Sebastian Roman Catholic Church.

The next party will be Oct. 7 with Mary Guiliano and Mary Ellen Trombino as the co-chairmen. Two more parties will be held this year in the current series. One is scheduled for Nov. 4 and another for Nov. 25.

The October committee has already been appointed and plans are nearly complete for the next party. A successful party was held last Monday under the direction of Mrs. Ernestine Guiliano and Mrs. Millie Angelo.

Many Attend Vernon Canteen

There were 182 students registered on Saturday night at the Vernon Junior High School canteen dance in the school gymnasium. The event was under the sponsorship of the Bellmarette Band Boosters, and music for dancing was recorded.

Several students acted as disc jockeys since this was the first dance and a regular disc jockey has not been chosen.

Band Booster members who served as counselors were Mrs. Hilda Borsotta and Mrs. Georgia Naccarato, co-chairmen of canteen, assisted by Mrs. Clara Saitz, Mrs. Theresa Ferrari and Mrs. Madeline Gelotty.

Registration remains open and another dance will be held on Saturday evening.

Disaster Fund

Marion Church Willing Workers Hold Meeting

The September meeting of the Willing Workers Class of the Marion Presbyterian Church was held Friday evening in the church social rooms. Hostesses were Ann Gantner and Ruth Beazell.

Mrs. Thompson Kirby and Mrs. James Todd conducted the opening devotional program which began with the group singing of "Beautiful Garden of Prayer". Mrs. Todd read scripture and Mrs. Todd offered prayer. They both took part in the reading of a an article, "The Utter Reality of God and Prayer". They also read another article that was interspersed with scripture verses presented by Mrs. Curtis Province, Mrs. Lawrence Weaver, Mrs. Pery Henson and Mrs. Betty Hamer. The women sang "Open My Eyes That I May See". Prayer concluded devotions.

Mrs. Robert Kennedy conducted the business session. Routine reports were given by Mrs. Albert Lutes and Mrs Todd.

Mrs. Kirby as ways and means chairman presented plans to sell candy as a fund raising project. It was decided to do this and to continue with the sale of ribbon.

Plans were made for the October meeting, which will be held on the third Friday of the month with Ida Dale andd Mrs. Ross Crago as hostesses.

A social hour followed and luncheon was served.

Degree of Honor Meeting Friday

Mrs. Ina Crow, president, was in charge of the Friday evening of the Degree of Honor Protective Association held in the lodge rooms. Routine business was discussed and the women rehearsed the part they will take in the district meeting to be held in Uniontown in October.

Mrs. Maude Hammitt was the winner of the lodge prize and Sue LeComte was winner of the special prize.

A social hour followed the meeting.

1957 to Be Best Year In History of Steel

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UP)—Steel Magazine declared today that 1957 will go into the books as the best in history for many segments of the American economy.

The metalworking magazine reported that the gross national product will total between 434-billion and 435-billion dollars by the end of the year. The figure is 4.3 per cent higher than the 414.7 billion dollars total recorded in 1956.

The magazine said the economy passed the first half mark at a rate which would reach 432-billion dollars annually and increased to an annual rate of 435-billion during the third quarter. According to the magazine, the economy is expected to reach an annual rate of 437-billion dollars during the final quarter.

Steel said metalworking sales this year will reach 138-billion dollars, up 2-billion over last year's.

The steelmakers magazine also issued optimistic forecasts concerning durable goods, construction, automobile production and orders for steel.

The magazine said capital outlays for plant and equipment will total slightly above 37-billion dollars compared to $35.08-bilion last year; machine tool shipments will be 900-million dollars compared to 886-million last year and railroad freight car shipments will be 99,000 plus compared to 67,080 in 1956.

The magazine said steelmaking operations declined for the second straight week, easing a half point to 81 per cent of capacity. That figure is equivalent to production of about 2,073,000 net tons of ingots and steel for castings, or about the same tonnage produced weekly from mid-July to mid-August.

Steel said the post Labor Day showing in steel production is disappointing but is partially explained by labor trouble at several plants.

The magazine said failure of the steel rate to rise sharply is responsible for the continued slump in scrap prices. Steel's composite on No. 1 heavy melting dropped for the fifth consecutive week. At $48.17 a gross tone, down $2 from the previous week, it is at the lowest level since the end of May.

Air Chief Will Visit in America

WASHINGTON (UP) — British air chief Marshal Sir Dermot Boyle will visit the United States next week at the invitaton of U.S. Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Thomas D. White.

The British information service said Sir Dermot will begin a tour of Air Force installations Sept. 29 that will include a fire-power demonstration at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla. The tour will end with talks at the Pentagon about Oct. 31.

District of Columbia Over the Hump in Desegrating of Schools

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON, (UP) — Education officials believe the district of Columbia public school system is over the hump in the biggest desegregation job yet undertaken.

Schools in this capital city, where Negro students outnumber white students by a 7 to 3 ratio, are now in their fourth year of completely integrated classes at all levels from kindergarten through high school.

"We still have many problems, as all schools have," Superintendent Hobart M. Corning said. "But we are gradually solving them. On the whole, we feel that desegregation has gone unusually well here."

His appraisal was seconded by a high school principal, Mrs. Elva C. Wells, who told a House investigating subcommittee last year that integration had produced serious disciplinary and academic difficulties.

Mrs. Wells said student behavior has improved considerably since then, and the average level of academic achievement has risen "substantially." About 65 per cent of the students in Mrs. Well's school — Roosevelt High — are Negroes.

(The overall population of the District of Columbia is about 56 per cent white, 44 per cent Negro. The proportion of Negroes in the schools is higher than in the general population, school officials said, because the average Negro family has more children than the average white family. Moreover, many white residents of the district are unmarried government workers.)

Dr. Charles E. Bish, principal of McKinley High School, said teachers and students of both races are getting "adjusted to the new situation." The results of this more "relaxed" atmosphere are showing all along the line, he said.

Teachers Are Encouraged

"Our teachers report encouraging forward strides in the quality of the work that the students are doing," he said.

Bish said McKinley students seem to be taking a "greater interest" in academic achievement this year. He cited, for example, a higher enrollment in classes in languages, science and higher mathematics.

"We still have some disciplinary problems," Bish said. "Some teachers feel there is more general noisiness and loud talking in desegregated classes. Tardiness and absenteeism are higher than before integration. But as for insolence, unruliness, fights and other serious midconduct—we just haven't had any real trouble of that kind."

He knew of no instance in which a student brought a knife or any kind of weapon to school.

He said sex "has not been a problem."

Miss Margarent Pepper, executive assistant to the superintendent of city schools, said her office has received "two or three reports at most" about boys of one race "annoying" girls of another. She said no sexual attacks or "serious molestations" have been reported.

The house subcommittee which investigated local schools last year was headed by Rep. James C. Davis (D-Ga.) Davis and three other southerners on the subcommittee issued a report urging that district schools be re-segregated.

Haitian Army Is Alerted for Election Trouble

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (UP) —The Haitian army was alerted today for possible "trouble" when results of Sunday's first presidential elections since 1950 are announced. Vote counting was underway and first unofficial results may be known during the day.

The balloting yesterday was orderly, in sharp contrast with the violence that has marred previous elections in this French-speaking Negro republic in the Caribbean. Armed police and troops moved quickly to break up political arguments which threatened to erupt into fistfights or worse.

Only a few scattered "incidents" were reported and only one death.

Gen. Antonio Kebreau, head of the ruling military Junta, said the voting was "generally calm" throughout the country.

An estimated 1,250,000 Haitians participated in the elections for president and a new legislature. Women voted for the first time.

The presidential race was between senator Louis Dejoie; Dr. Francois Duvallier, and attorney Clement Jumelle. All three are pro-American political moderates.

Health Insurance Questions Are Many; Big Growth Since 1940

(First of a Series)

By JACK V. FOX

NEW YORK (UP)—Do you have some sort of health insurance? Are you reasonably satisfied with it? Do you know what it costs and what it covers? If you had a really rough medical bill, would you be protected?

Would you be willing to pay higher premiums if you could get more medical coverageb Would you invest in a policy paying most bills up to $10,000? Do you think doctor visits to the home should be insurable? What about regular physical checkups?

Do you set aside part of your income for medical expenses? Are the older people in your family insured against sickness? Do you think payments for, say an appendectomy or childbirth, under present plans are adequate?

Those are some of the questions that are causing a great deal of controversy today in the insurance business, the medical profession, the government and among the public.

118 Million Covered

There are about 118 million of us today with some sort of medical insurance—about three out of every four Americans.

The growth of health insurance is one of the most spectacular developments on the social scene since the war. In 1940, only 3 million Americans had such insurance. Today there are 1,200 companies writing such policies and the competition is fierce.

Payments to persons with insurance for hospital, doctor and other medical bills last year amounted to a whopping $3,600,000,000. But it must be remembered that the nation's total medical bill for the year was more than $10 billion.

The biggest surge in health insurance recently has been in "catastrophic" or major medical coverage. It is a type that does not "pay by the stitch," but awards a lump cash sum to the policyholder up to a big amount—usually not more than $10,000. It is fairly expensive.

There are now about 10 million persons with such insurance. Many of them have it in addition to "basic" coverage for less serious illness.

Blue Cross Pioneered

The Blue Cross and Blue Shield organizations pioneered mass medical insurance in the United States, starting with a plan at Baylor Univeristy in Dallas in 1929.

By last year, Blue Cross (hospitalization) and Blue Shield (surgery and doctor) had grown to some 51 million members for the former and 38 million for the latter. There are 85 separate Blue Cross corporations in the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico. Blue Cross-Blue Shield represents about 41 per cent of all medical insurance written.

Blue Cross contracts provide a set daily amount for hospital board and room over a fixed period, plus certain other hospital expenses. Blue Shield has a schedule of surgical payments and some other doctors' expenses performed in hospital. Both plans are now offering broadened versions to cover medical expenses.

Coverage Varies

Individual insurance companies in total recently have surpassed Blue Cross - Blue Shield in volume of business. They now insure 51.7 per cent.

Their policies are of great range, but in general they differ in that the policyholder usually receives a cash award within certain limitations rather than having a predetermined schedule of what is payable.

The third major type insurer is typified by the Health Insurance Plan of New York whose main distinction is that it is formed by doctors themselves. The policyholder must accept the services of one of the member doctors. Others of this type are Group Health Insurance of Washington, Kaiser Permanente and the Ross-Loos Clinic in California.

The government, of course, provides a type of health insurance through the Veterans Administration whose services are available to the 21 million veterans now living. There are also a few labor union insurance associations.

No Endorsements From AMA

The American Medical Association has not endorsed any plan. It took an opinion sampling of 8,000 physicians on health insurance in 1954. The majority gave the opinion that insurance should cover "a substantial portion but less than the full cost" of medical and surgical care.

The majority also said that most benefit schedules fell below the normal charges of physicians. There are about 180,000 practicing physicians in the United States. A 1955 survey by Medical Economics showed their average net income to be: general practicioners $14,814; specialists $18,000.

Most observers say the American system has its strengths, also its weaknesses and inequitie. But the insurance companies point out this is a very complicated field.

Said one:

"While a life insurance policy requires a death to start a claim, a hospital-medical policy requires only the policy and a few aches and pains."

Olive oil has been recognized as a beauty aid for centuries and is an ingredient of many soaps and other products. In Spain, tht women use it regularly on eyelashes to make them long and glossy.

World of TV—

Life Span of Comic Not Too Long on TV, Jack Paar Reveals

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP) — The life span of the average comic seems to coincide roughly with that of the fruit fly.

But Jack Parr goes on and on.

Paar broke into TV back in 1952 with "Up to Paar." Since that time, he has piloted an early morning TV show and an afternoon TV show. He is now working the late shift at NBC-TV where he heads up the "Tonight" show. He has jacked up the NBC show's rating, is pulling 1,000 letters a day and is being hailed in some quarters as the comedy find of the year.

Most Promising Comic

"It's funny, really funny," said Paar as he looked sad. "Back in 1947, I was picked as the most promising comic in the business. You know who was picked the year before Henry Morgan. You know who got it the year before that Alan Young.

"It's a funny business. I've managed to hang on all this time and make a steady living. Others have been fading. But maybe it's not too funny. I think the reason I've lasted is that I don't press too hard, so hard that the public gets sick of me.

"And I try to be myself. That's the big secret of staying on in this business — you've got to be yourself. You take Red Buttons and what do you think of 'Ho, Ho, Hee, Hee,' You're in trouble when the public thinks of you like that.

"Hope is Hope. And Benny is Benny and they go on and on. But Gleason isn't Gleason and Caesar isn't Caesar. Ad look what happens. Caesar is the greatest comic genius of this business, but he was never himself. He couldn't even say —'Good Evening' successfully on camera. Where is he now?'

"There are only a handful of people I know who can just be casually funny. We've had some of them on our show. Not big, big names, but people like Hans Conreid, Arthur Treacher, Louis Nye. Take Nye, he's much funnier than he seems to be on that Steve Allen 'Steverino' thing.

Paar sighed, "In fact, some of the people who have come on our show, were so funny that I've turned into a straight man for them. Maybe that's what I'm becoming—a straight man.

"At times I grieve when I think of that. But maybe it's for the best—any man who has to work nine hours on camera every week and tries to carry the whole load by himself just winds up killing himself."

NEW WESTERN STAR — An exciting new adult western series, "Cold .45" makes its debut, Friday, Oct. 18, 10 to 10:30 p. m. Wayde Preston, above, athletic six-footer, plays Cris Colt, a civilian on a secret mission for the federal government.

Has no Luck with Bridal Bouquets

CHICAGO (UP)—Carol Kozak, 21, a tabulating machine operator, has no faith in numbers when it comes to catching bridal bouquets.

"I've caught a dozen bouquets without a proposal," Miss Kozak said. "maybe they ought to throw men instead."

TV NOTES

Add to that top-heavy lineup of "names" for the CBS "Crescendo" show on Sept. 29 those of Benny Goodman, Carol Channing and Stubby Kaye. At the rate producer Paul Gregory is going in signing up talent for this, the sponsor will be lucky to find time to get a plug in edgewise.

Two-part Show on Studio One

Richard Baschart and Betsy Palmer will star in "Mutiny on the Shark," an exciting two-part dramatization about a highly-trained crew of an atomic submarine and their perfection-minded skipper, on Studio One tonight and next week, 10-11 p. m. on KDKA-TV.

Written for television by Max Erlich, "Mutiny on the Shark" will be produced by Gordon Duff and directed by Tom Donovan. Other members of the cast will include William Smithers, Robert Loggia, Ann Hillary and Judson Laire.

Part one of the story introduces Commander Matt Donovan (Baschart), the skipper of the newly commissioned atomic submarine "Shark," and a man whose ruthless obsession for perfection leads him to expect his men to perform with the same cold precision as the incredible nuclear machine they man. Donovan has no patience with human frailty and he relentlessly drives his crew to be like himself.

Assigned to Donovan's command are two young officers, Lt. Bill Meade (Smithers) and Lt. Joe Crane (Loggia). Meade, a dedicated and serious man, stands in awe of the "Iron Skipper," and dreams some day of commanding his own sub. Crane is more sensitive and prone to worrying. A brilliant engineering officer, he is very much worried about his wife Marcia (Miss Hillary), who is expecting a child.

When Donovan meets his two new officers, he carefully evaluates them and then invites them to bring their wives to the officers' club so he can get to know them. He explains that he also considers it very important to know the women behind the men on his crews. Ann Meade (Miss Palmer) instantly senses that her husband's new skipper dislikes her and she reacts with subtle hostility. Donovan, intent on molding Bill in his own shadow, recognizes Ann as an obstacle and she, seeing a formidable threatt o her marriage, is equally determined to keep him the way he is.

Methods of Locating Causes of Allergies

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Skin tests have some value in determining whether a person is allergic to specific foods, although some doctors argue the point

But since such tests require only a couple of hours, and alternative procedures take several weeks, they are at least worth a try in many cases.

In the event your doctor does not recommend skin tests or these measures fail to produce the desired results, then there are two ways to determine just what foods may be bothering you.

The elimination diet probably is the most widely used method. While there are numerous variations, there are only two basic types.

One is a rather strict diet comprising only four or five foods which generally do not cause allergic reactions. Peas, rice, pears and lamb are examples.

The other type of diet is not quite as rigid. In this, you can eat just about anything except those foods which are most likely to cause an allergy, such as eggs, milk, wheat and most cereals.

If your customary allergic symptoms do not appear within four days to a week, we can pretty safely assume that they are caused by the foods which have been eliminated from your diet. Then, one by one, other foods are added.

When an allergic reaction occurs, it is apparent, in most cases, that the most recently added food is the offender.

Of course, if the original diets do not relieve the allergy than we can assume that one or more of these foods are trouble-makers. In that case, you'll have to switch to another basic diet and begin gradually adding the foods on your original diet.

Generally, doctors recommend that three trials be given to suspected foods, unless the severity of the allergic attack prohibits it.

An even more simple method of tracing foods to which you may be allergic is to keep a diary.

After each meal jot down everything you have eaten and drunk Note also the time any allergic symptoms begin. This should give you some idea of what food or beverage is causing the trouble.

Question and Answer

D. H.: My voice has been getting deeper. What could cause this?

Answer: There may be a thickening or polyp or other type of tumor on one of the vocal cords. It would be well for you to consult an ear, nose and throat specialist about this as soon as possible.
